APPROPRIATION BILLS TO CONSIDER

This Week to Get Them Out of the Way for Tariff Reform.

SOME LETTERS THE SPEAKER GETS,

Queer Epistles from People in Different Parts of the Country-Gossip About the Nation's Capital.

Washington, April 24.-(Special.)-In contrast with the lively scenes of last week, the proceedings of both branches of congress during the present week promise to lack public interest. The managers of the house, in pursuance of their programme of pushing regular appropriation bills through, in order to secure an opportunity for the further consideration of tariff bills and hasten the approach of final adjournment, have decided to devote the entire week to the consideration of these measures.

Immediately after disposing of some District of Columbia business tomorrow, diplomatic appropriation bills are likely to figure largely in senate proceedings also during the week. The army appropriation bill is on the calendar and will be called up at the first opportunity. It will be followed by the naval appropriation bill. which will be reported in a day at two, accompanied by an amendment increasing three fold the number of new cruisers to be constructed for the navy. The debate on the Chinese bill itself will be sent back to the house Tuesday with the senate

Among the speeches announced for the coming week is one by Senator Jones, of Arkansas, on the subject of Choctaw and Chicasaw awards which the president refused to pay, and addresses by Senators Hawley and Gray in opposition to the Kyle resolution proposing investigation of the slums of great cities.

Letters from Cranks.

The speaker of the house of representatives receives, perhaps, more letters from cranks than any other man in the United

Here are three recent letters that are

I wish to call your attention to some vital facts that should interest every true patriotic citizen. Facts that I have obtained by reading, by hearing and seeing; by suffering and experiencing from my own countrymen and have observed by the spirit of truth. We are a land of rebels from our beginning. Our forefathers rebelled against our mother country, England, and for eight long years the cry of blood rang over field and flood, and with great stubbornness and by the help of Lak'ayette did gain liberty from our mother country in consequence of which this fair land of the west has been and now is filled with idols and idolatry and witchcraft, and our late war of the rebellion does confirm this fact beyond dispute. When we take in consideration the scripture testimony—see I Samuel, 15, 23—"Rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry." I have heard men groan and saw them weep for justice, mercy and liberty in the state of lower. fair representatives of hundreds. This is "Rebellion is as the sin of witcheraft and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry." I have heard men groan and saw them weep for justice, mercy and liberty in the state of Iowa; yea, I have seen them labor as slaves in the south; yea, I have seen men robbed, of their liberties, time and labor and have suffered the same treatment from my own countrymen in the state of Iowa for the sake of Christ Jesus, the Lord, and my country. Oh, my dear fellow countrymen, as a faithful watchman let me, poor and as weak as I am give you warning in time. "Surely oppression maketh a wise man mad, and a gift destroyeth the heart," see Ecc. 7, 7.
"And thou shait take no gift, for the gift blindeth the wise and perverteth the words of the righteous." (See Ex. 23, 8) "Thou shalt not wrest judgment; thou shalt not respect persons, neither thke a gift, for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the righteous." (See Deu. 16, 19). "Neither shalt thou set up any image, which the Lord thy God hateth." Never was our country in greater danger and peril than now. You have received a present, an image, and set it up on Bedloe island, at New York, and by it teach a lie to all nations of the earth. Therefore the heart of the nation is in great danger of being destroyed. Read carefully that part of the president's message in relation to the czar and the Hebrew. Then the question of the lawyer and then that of Jesus Christ, and the answer the lawyer gave him, and the reply Jesus gave him, and the question the lawyer up to Jesus and the parable Christ gave him. (See St. Luke 10, 25-37.) Take particular note of the thirty-seventh verse. Then of the action of the government official at New York with those seventy Russian Jews that came on board the French steamer La Gascogne. Shall we send them back to their persecutors, tormenters and murderers, or shall we show them mercy and receive the same from Him that careth for even the little sparrow? Shall we be more heathenish than the heathen was to Columbus four hundred years

Hon. Charles F. Crisp, Washington.—Sir. Please excuse a poor country farmer for attempting to address your honor. But, sir, I wish to tell you what the people think they want. They want tariff reform, they want oppression reform, they want mortgage reform, they want bank reform, they want money reform, they want bank reform, they want more reform, they want bank reform, they want more reform, they want lawyer reform, they want government reform, they want lawyer reform, they want government reform, they want doctor reform, and the farmer has been so imposed upon they want a reform that will benefit him a little; they want capital reform, they want the future dealer hanged or reform him in some way. Sir, please read the following chapters in the holy Bible, to-wit: Nehemiah, 5th chapter; also, James, 5th chapter; also, 18th chapter of Revelations, and, sir, if congress will not try to deliver us from oppression we will pray to the living and true God that will hear the prayers of the poor. Sir, if we have got to be oppressed, we will become the offscourings of the world. Sir, the future dealer selling our cotton before it is planted and forcing the farmers to take half price for it, and then the merchant taking a mortgage on all we have and then selling us things at from one to three prices, which is bringing our families to starvation and degradation. Sir, can't congress pass a law to stop the future dealer from making slaves of us? Can't congress pass a law to stop the future dealer from and weat for nothing, or almost nothing, and selling it an extortionate price? May God help us.

THEOSOPHICAL CONVENTION.

Olcost Resigns.

In Annual Convention in Chicago—President
Olcost Resigns.

Chicago, April 24.—The annual convention of delegates from the various theosophical societies of the United States opened at the Palmer house today. This convention is most important to the American section since its foundation, because it is the first since the death of Madame Blavatsky, the society's leader, and because it was known that at this meeting would be received the resignation of Colonel Henry S. Olcott, now in India, who was one of the founders and was chosen president for life. Almost half the session, after it had been called to order by William O. Judge, of New York, a vice president and general secretary and permanent chairman had been chosen in the person of Judge R. McBride, of the supreme court of Indiana, was devoted to the memory of the strange authoress of "The Secret Doctrines," and "Isis Unveiled."

In view of the fact that the president of the entire society, Colonel Henry S. Olcott, made a division of the ashes of the late Madame Blavatsky in London last July in the presence of Annie Besant and Mr. Judge, giving a third each to the Indian, European and American sections, it was resolved to endorse the establishment of a permanent headquarters in New York where the portion of the ashes given America should be kept in a suitable receptacle.
It was also resolved to give financial aid to the Blavatsky memorial, which is to take the form of publications looking to the ultimate union between orient and occident. In addition to the cable message received from Annie Besant in London, which reads: "Cordial greetings from Europe," that much-talked-of woman sent a long letter from the Blavatsky lodge, of which she is president.

This letter and one from the European section of the Theosophical Society were that much-talked-of woman sent a long letter from the Blavatsky lodge, of which she is president.

This letter and one from the European section of the Theosophical Society were read by G. S. Meade, general secretary of that section, and up to the time of her death private secretary to Madame Blavatsky. In both of these it was firmly denied that the death of the founder had left any trace of a collapse on the part of the society. The resignation of the now aged president and founder, Colonel Olcott, was dated at Adair, Madras, January 21, 1891, yet the American convention was the first to act upon it. It did so by adopting resolutions announcing that the offices of "president and founder" should remain forever unique, and unanimously declaring its choice as successor to the presidency to be William O. Judge, to hold office for life, society founder with Colonel Olcott and Madame Blavatsky. The latter discussion, Mr. Meade announced, has already been taken by the European sections. But a further resolution was adopted asking Colonel Olcott to revoke his resignation and remain president, with a minimum of work. If he persists in his determination, the resolution provides that Colonel Olcott shall be given a life residence at Adair, India, and that Mr. Judge, assuming the presidency, Bertram Keightley, and an ardent theosophist, who is now in India, but has visited Chicago on several occasions, shall be made vice president. Until these matters are finally settled. Mr. Judge was re-elected to the office of general secretary. Mr. Judge's report for the year and other papers closed the meeting, in which he had much to say of Madame Blavatsky's life and death, and of the study of the ancient Hindus.

She went to the church bareheaded, carrying a can of kerosene oil, springled the contents on the floor in the vestibule and on the steps leading to the gallery. She then lighted a match and set fire to the oil at the same time ruaning up the center of the aisle during prayer, demanding to see Rev. W. R. Richards, the pastor. An Injunction Granted Againt Manufacturers of Farm Implements.

Elmira, N. Y., April 24.—Waiter Lloyd Smith, justice of the supreme court, at the instance and request of the Clipper Chilled Plow Company, of this city, yesterday granted an injunction order, restraining and preventing the National Harrow Company from bringing any action against the customers and patrons of the Clipper Chilled Plow Company to recover damages which the National Harrow Company inght claim upon the ground that the harrows of the Clipper Chilled Plow Company infringe on the patrents of the National Horrow Company. The injunction was granted upon the ground that the National Harrow Company was formed and existed for the purpose of creating a monopoly, and that it held and acquired its patents for the purpose of preventing competition in the manufacture and sale of the spring tooth harrows, and of obtaining power to fix prices, and that such purposes were opposed to public policy and were illegal.

Milledgeville, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—

CONCERT OF ACTION IS DESIRED.

The Members of the Alliance Want Directions How to Conduct Local Fights-The Call Issued.

Washington, April 24 .- (Special.)-The Post will print, tomorrow, a circular calling a council of the presidents and members of the executive committees of the state Farmers' Alliances at Birmingham. Ala., on Tuesday, the 3d of May.

The circular says that this is the most critical period in the history of the order. Never has there been such a universal and loud cry from the order to the officers for directions how to conduct local fights. Never has there been so little concert of action among the officers of the different states and sections. This, if allowed to continue, the circular says, must be fatal. Concert of action is imperative, and success cannot be achieved without it. The political contest threatens destruction to the order. The circular explains that the expenses attending national councils of this character is too great to be borne with convenience, hence the present method of a meeting of the officers is proposed.

Great stress is laid upon the importance of meeting, and the necessity for full and free councils by all executive officers is said to be greater than at any time in the history of the movement. The meeting will be strictly secret, with none but properly accredited persons admitted. The officers named of the following state allianceshave been invited to attend: Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Also the officers of the alliance in the territory of Oklahoma.

Democratic Speakers in Greene Meet th Third Partyites on Their Own Ground.

Third Partyites on Their Own Ground.

Greenesboro, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—A political meeting was held in the Liberty neighborhood last night. This section has been considered the stronghold of the third party in Greene county, but the meeting last night developed that the democracy still holds its own even in the hotbed of the "reformers."

The appointment was made by the third party followers, and it was considered as a third party rally. Several democratic speakers, however, were present and gave the gathering some rattling democratic argument to bear in mind.

It has been claimed that there was only one democrat in the Liberty neighborhood, but out of the hundred present last nibit over third were democrated.

one democrat in the Liberty neignborhood, but out of the hundred present last nibht one-third were democrats. A number of negroes were present, but they gave more cheers to the democrats than to their opponents.

Hon. H. T. Lewis, Dr. W. E. Adams and Judge James B. Park, Sr., were present from Greenesboro, and when the meeting was organized and a division of time asked was organized and a division of time assed by the democrats, the third party men said they had no speakers, but would give way for the democrats. Thirty minutes were allowed each speaker and Dr. Adams, Colo-nel Lewis and Judge Park followed each other, the third party men not offering any speakers. They made stirring democratic speakers. They made stirring democratic talks and shelled the third party platform right and left.

When they concluded, however, the third party men put forward several speakers, who talked St. Louis dectrine. They would party men put forward several speakers, who talked St. Louis doctrine. They would not allow democratic speakers any further time, and when Colonel Lewis arose to reply they adjourned the meeting. Their action was a virtual admission that they have no faith in the strength of their cause and are afraid of an open, honest and fair discussion of their principles.

The speeches of the democrats did some good, however, and a democratic club was organized with between twenty and twenty-five members, and every member is enthusiastic and will work and talk for democracy. The fact that Liberty is not so solid for the third party as has been claimed, is strong evidence that the democracy is gaining strength every day. There is no doubt that the democrats will carry the county by two to one among the white voters.

A joint discussion will be had at Gresham villo next Saturday and it promises to be the largest meeting held in the county during the campaign. Dr. J. R. Robins, district lecturer for the third party, has been pitted against Hon. H. T. Lewis, and while Dr. Robins is the ablest man the third party has, he will not be able to stand up against the hurricane of democratic principle and democratic doctrine that will be poured on him.

Next Sunday will dawn upon many awavering brother drawn back into the good.

Next Sunday will dawn upon many wavering brother drawn back into the good old democratic fold.

IN A QUANDARY.

No Provision for the Election of Presidential Electors in North Dakota.

St. Paul, Minn., April 24.—A special to The Pioneer Press from Grand Forks, N. D., says: It has been discovered that the state legislature made no provision whatever for the election of presidential electors, although the law was passed requiring them to meet at Bismarck the third Monday in January to cast ballots. It is how too late, of course, to provide for a legal election at the polls unless a special session of the legislature is held. The regular session of the legislature meets the first Tuesday in January, six days before the meeting of electors is to be held. The legislature can elect electors, but the legislature may have a democratic majority, while the republicans have a majority in the state or vice versa.

It is suggested that an agreement be made by the party leaders and the form of voting for electors gone through in regular manner with the understanding that the legislature endorse the action of the people by electing the electors. The question is a serious one.

Raleigh, N. C., April 24.—(Special.)—Perry Cox, a straight-out third party man, has revealed a secret which throws much light on the work and plans of Polk, Butler and other alliance leaders. He says that last Sunday a conference was held here, at which Polk, Butler, State Business Agent W. H. Worth and others were present. Polk declared for a straight-out third party ticket and Cox and some others took the same view, but Butler said that this plan was wrong, that the true plan was to capture the state democratic convention by means of his so-called alliance convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the day before the state convention which is to be held here 17th, the delegates at the start under the guise of democracy, and instead of sending delegates to the Chicago national convention, we will send them to Omaha." Are to Hold a National Conference in Chicago, Ill., April 24.—A meeting has been held here attended by well-known colored men from various sections of the country and a call promulgated for a national conference of colored republicans to be held in Chicago June 4th, next. The call says in part:

"We need accumulated knowledge and information, united character, combined wisdom and sound judgment of our prominent mme in every section of the country in this coming presidential campaign. The separate coach law, which has been enacted by the various legislatures in the southern states, and the numerous outrages that have been perpetrated upon them without the slightest provocation or cause in the south, demands our immediate action and attention, and in order to have a full and free discussion, and to adopt a plan and method to redress these wrongs as far as possible, we issue this call."

Invitations to attend the conference are to be sent to five persons in each state and territory and the District of Columbia.

THE STORY OF A WIDOW. And How a Glass of Water Brought Her a Husband, Douglasville, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)— Over the line in Paulding there lived a widow whose name, we believe, was Brown. But it is not Brown now. She is there no more, nor is she a widow any more forever. She was fat and fair, but not forty. About three weeks ago there came along a middle-aged widower of fine mien and prepossessing appearance. Ostensibly he stopped for a drink of water at the well. The widow, in the goodness of heart, kindly gave him the water. Her looks pleased him, and at once to business he went. Neither one ever saw the other before. He asked her if she was married. She told him no, that she was a lone widow. Whereupon he informed her that he was a widower, hunting for a wife. She replied, "Yes, sir! walk in." Here we drop the curtain. In her own language, however, we give the result: "It is sufficient to say this is leap year," you know, and at 8 o'clock that night we twain were made one." We fixed it all right there and then."

Tomorrow she leaves for his home. Where it is, or what sort it is, or whether he has one she knoweth not. She says "marriage is a lottery anyhow." She was on our streets yesterday as gay as a lark. Now, who can beat a widow "for business".

A Fire Bug in Texas.

Painesville, Tex., April 24.—A wave of incendiarism, which seems to have been sweeping over this state, reached Henrietta yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, and now the greater and best part of the buildings in the town are only a recollection. At the most quiet hour of the night a boarding house near the square caught fire. The flames could not be checked, but died out for want of something to devour. The south side of the square is gone, entailing a loss of $200,000. The south side of the square was by far the best part of the town. All the buildings were of rock and brick and were handsomely constructed.

Emperor Joseph Unveiled the Monument to Vienna, April 24.—A drizzling rain and a leaden sky marred the pleasure of the great crowd that assembled today to witness the unveiling of the colossal equestrain statue of Marshal Radetzky in Amhoff square. The scene was enlivened by a splendid array of troops and officers and deputations of veterans who fought under the marshal. The emperor, who also served under Radetzky, arrived at about neon with a Drilliant escort. The emperor made a short speech, in which he eulogized the marshal's deeds. After the united forces of a number of bands had played the national hymn, the emperor unveiled the statue. The archibishop then officiated at a brief religious service and the ceremony concluded with the firing of volleys and a march past the statue. The monument stands on the exact spot where the revolutionists of 1848 hanged Count Latour, the war minister.

Grand Duke Luxemburg, Prince Albert of Wurtemburg, Duke Cumberland, Prince Phillip, of Coburg; Prince Alexander, of Battenberg; Count Kalnoky and all Austrian archdukes, headed by the aged Archduke Albrecht, all in gala uniform and resplendent with decorations, and over one hundred Austrian and Hungarian generals and 2,000 other officers, took part in the march past the statue. The emperor complimented Sculptor Zumbusch upon his great success.

They belonged to a band of robbers that terrorized certain districts in the Netherlands for many years. Ravachol is apparently scared at the wholesale arrests of anarchists made last week. He has become depressed and refuses food, appearing to fear betrayal. He receives numerous letters. One assured him that a plan was being proposed to prevent his execution if he should be sentenced to death.

He Is Too Slow for William,
Berlin, April 24.—The retirement of General Von Kaltenva Kaltenbornstachau, minister of war, is regarded as imminent. The reason given for his retirement is ill health, but it is really on account of the proposed army reforms. He has always disliked his parliamentary duties, and has seldom attended the sessions during the army debates. The government, fearing that some question on the subject may induce a keen struggle, desires a more active minister. It is probable that he will be succeeded by General Von Blume.

A MOUNTAIN GIRL

Gets a Whole County Into a Stew, and Causes Several Killings.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 24.—(Special.)—
For the past few months there has been a deadly feud among some families in Monroe county, and two Murphy boys, termed desperadoes, and fugitives from justice. The start was when one of the Murphys ran off with a mountain girl by the name of Johnson. Her folks pursued and captured the girl, after she had been with Murphy several days, and a fight occurred then in which old man Johnson and one of his sons were killed. Others in the neighborhood took up the row until the entire south, or mountainous side, of Monroe county was involved and there have been several fights with several deaths. The Murphys are charged with all the killing and on April 1st the sheriff of Monroe county took a squad of deputies into the mountains to attempt the capture of the Murphys. He came up with them about dark on the 2d of April when a fight took place. In the battle Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ray, was shot in the head by one of the Murphys. A telegram received tonight from Madisonville states that Ray died yesterday afternoon. He was one of the most popular men in the county, and vengeance is sworn on the Murphys.

A telegram was received this afternoon, from the sheriff of the county, ordering a case of Winchester rifles, and it is reported that a large party has been-organized and will go into the mountains after the Murphys. They are desperate men, thoroughly acquainted with the mountain passes and laurel thickets, and other deaths are certain. They swear they will never be taken alive. The scene of the trouble is remote from railroads and telegraph lines.

Three Men Are Crushed to Death in Tennessee's Former Capital.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 24.—(Special.)—An accident occurred at Jonesboro shortly after noon which resulted in the instant death of three men and the wounding of three others so seriously that they may die, Jonesboro is the county seat of Washington county, the former capital of the state, and it is an historic old town. The courthouse is an old building and recently the county authorities determined to have constructed some new vaults for the better preserving of county records. The construction with a force of hands has been at work some days on the construction of the vaults and the walls had been carried to a height of some forty feet. This wall collapsed with seven men on top of it and fell with a crash, burying six of the men under the brick and mortar. Instantly there was great excitement in the staid old town, and a relief party went to work to secure the buried men.

Brance Eldridge, James Wilson and Frank May were taken out dead. Wade Snodgrass, Eli Moore and James Reed were taken from the ruins very much hurt. It is feared all of them will die. Contractor Williams, the seventh on the wall, saved himself by clinging to a pole, he being suspended several minutes before he was rescued. All the men lived in Jonesboro or surrounding towns and leave families. So far it has not been clearly explained as to what caused the collapse, but it is believed to be due to the absence of a tie wall. It is charged, too, that the construction was done in a careless manner generally. The county will have damage suits to defend. nessee's Former Capital.

IN THE LAVENDER MOUNTAINS-

The Great Storm Which Visited Them and What It Did.

The Great Storm Which Visited Them and What It Did.

Rome, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—From that scope of country which lies above Rome, near the Lavender mountains, reports still come about the great hailstorm that visited there last week.

Not only were chickens, bluebirds, sparrows, turkeys and two young calves killed, and window glasses smashed, but later reports show that the roofing of several houses was torn and beaten in and great terror prevailed among many of the people. Report has it that the chunks of ice which fell were near the size of a man's fist. As accompaniments of the night of terror, forked lightning lighted the skies and thunder roared among the Lavender mountains. It is said that many of the inhabitants were greatly frightened and many of those in little huts sought refuge in prayer.

On one farm near a pine forest great icror reigned. The hail played havoc with the pine straw and broke great branches from the trees, producing a peculiar odor like fire and brimstone, and this, in connection with the beating on the roof, the thunder and the lightning, caused some of the darkies to think the world had come to its end. On their knees they bowed in supplication and would not be comforted till the end. On their knees they bowed in suppli-cation and would not be comforted till the storm had cleared.

After the storm, the stars came out and washed roads, dead birds and animals alone told the story of the storm.

Dan Casey, one of his assailants, was shot through the head and died in half an hour. Another man, whose name is not known, was fatally wounded while two others were seriously hurt. A GRAND ARRAY OF LEGAL TALENT

Will Be Presented at This First Meeting of the Georgia Bar Association in the Central City.

Macon, Ga., April 24 .- (Special.)-The Georgia Bar Association has never met in Macon, strange to say, considering the beauty of the city and the centrality of Its location, and the number and excellence of the members of the Macon bar. But this pleasure is in store for the city and the lawyers of the state. The association will hold its annual session in Macon on June 1st. It has always been the custom for the local bar of the several cities in which the association has been held to tender some special courtesy to their visiting brethren. At a meeting of the Macon bar, held to make arrangments for this purpose, Judge Miller was requested to preside, and on motion, appointed the following committee to take the matter in charge: Messrs. W. H. Felton, Jr., A. O. Bacon, W. Dessau, DuPont Guerry, Clement P. Steed, Minter Wimberly, and R. W. Patterson, At the hands of these visitors, Macon's legal visitors cannot lack any attention that thoughtful courtesy can suggest or prompt.

The meeting will be opened with an address by President John Peabody, of Columbus, A leading lawyer from another state will deliver the annual address. The regular programme includes reports from standing, and special committees, papers by Messrs. J. R. Lamar, of Augusta, P. W. Meldrim, of Savannah, B. F. Abbott, of Atlanta, and J. H. Martin, of Hawkinsville.

The supreme court always adjourns to attend the meeting of the association. It is the only opportunity the lawyers of the state have for meeting socially with the judges of the supreme court. The members of the association have always appreciated highly the courtesy of the supreme court in adjourning and attending the sessions. Chief Justice Bleckley has frequently contributed to the success of the meetings and it is hoped that he will furnish a paper of some character at the coming session. The executive committee selected June 1st as the day of meeting, because it occurs, being on Wednesday, during a week beginning with the fifth Monday in May. No courts are appointed for five weeks, and it is expected that the meeting will be largely attended.

BAD FOR MELON GROWERS-

Freight Must Be Prepaid, So Says the Central Traffic Association.

tral Traffic Association.

Macon, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—Here is a piece of unexpected information for the melon growers of Georgia. It was understood by the Southern Railway and Steamship Association that the Central Traffic Association, which controls thirty-six lines of railway, had or would rescind their action recalling the prepayment of freight by melon and fruit growers, but they have declined to do so. Freight to seven-eighths of the markets north of the Ohio will have to be prepaid. This, of course, will cause all of the "collect" markets to be gutted early in the season. Nothing can be more damaging to the melon market than to have one-half the markets prepay and the balance collect. The following letter speaks for itself:

for itself:

"Atlanta, April 22.—Mr. T. O. Skellie, Macon Dear Sir: Commissioner Stahlman advises that the Central Traffic Association at its meeting in Chicago, Ill., on the 12th, declined to authorize the handling of melons, fruits, etc., on the basis of the past several years, that is, to accept the same without prepayment or guarcept the same without prepayment or guarantee, hence the Central Traffic Association will demand prepayment or guarantee on melons this year. This includes rections this year. This includes practically all points north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers. However, the Southern Dispatch (Louisville and Nashville via Atlanta, Ga., to Evansville and Evansville and Terre Haute and Peoria, Decatur and Evansville) will take melons this season as last, without prepay or guarantee to Chicago, Vincennes, Terre Haute, Danville, Peoria and intermediate points on the same line. Yours truly,

J. A. SAMS"

An order was also passed directing the receiver of the Capital bank to pay $1,333 taxes due the city of Macon for the year 1891.

Saturday afternoon one week ago. twenty minutes past 6 o'clock, little Addie Collier, fourteen years of age, who lived with her parents at No. 1330 Florence street, went to meet her Maker. Her death was a most singular one, from the fact that when she said she would die at that very time did her soul leave its body of clay. Addie Collier had been having slight attacks of fever for a week or so previous to the day she died, but she was not so unwell as to be required to take to her bed. In fac., the last two or three days she had been going to school and playing with her companions. On Saturday morning after she up she said: "The Great White Man coming for me just before dark."

She repeated this several times, but no one paid any particular attention Later in the day she told several of the neighbors the same thing.
"I have seen the Great White Man way up in the skies, and He said He was coming for me just before the sun goes down, said Addie to her neighbors.

As the day wore on she kept repeating this. She went to bed in the afternoon and began to say her prayers. The family and a number of the neighbors, who had heard what she had said, surrounded the bed, and just as the clock on the mantelpiece tolled the hour of 6 o'clock, Addie said: "The time is nearly come."

Slowly the minute hand of the clock moved on, and more anxious became the watchers. When the hand reached twenty minutes after 6 o'clock, Addie said: "Goodby, world! I am going up in the skies," and as the last word left her lips her soul took the Cash Is Welcome.

Augusta, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—Mr. Lacon R. Tillman, second cousin of Governor B. R. Tillman, who runs a small dry goods store on Jackson street, is a happy man today. Tillman is a poor paralytic, who removed to Augusta from Edgefield, S. C., two years ago. From 1871 to 1882 he was postmaster of Edgefield. The work of the office was such as necessitated a clerk to assist him, and the federal government allowed him to engage one, but no appropriation was made for the purpose. Tillman employed W. D. Ramey as assistant and allowed him $22 a quarter. Tillman paid Ramey his salary out of his own stipend. Tillman repeatedly wrote to the officials about his clerk's salary, receiving replies each time that it was all right, but, not getting the money, Tillman continued paying Ramey out of his own pocket. Since Tillman has been postmaster he has lost all his money by fire and robbery, and now he is in reduced circumstances. Recently he communicated with the postoffice authorities, asking to be reimbursed with the money he paid for clerk hire. Today he received notification that the money would be allowed him. Tillman will get $$88 a year, amounting to $968 for the eleven years he paid the clerk. This snug sum will come in handy to Tillman, who is in need of every dollar. It never failed to cure dyspepsia and liver complaint. Take Simmons Liver Regula-

And gathered there, with heads uncovered, and with thoughts flown back, in that quiet peaceful tract, they will, with flowers and words of love, testify their undying devotion to the comrades who fell before Atlanta.

Though Appointtox robbed them of the prestige and glory of victory, and left them scattered, battle-scarred, and in rags, thirty years have not sufficed to rob them of the deep feeling of love which bound one confederate soldier to another. And while fighting, now, under the flag which waved, then, over their opposing foes, and while loyal to it, they still cherish a feeling of admiration and love for the boys who wore the gray, who were silenced into eternal sleep by the enemy's Tomorrow's celebration of Memorial Day will be complete and impressive, as the memories and sentiment that cluster around the day demand. An imposing parade from the city to the cemetery, Memorial Day oration by Mr. Fulton Col-ville, at the graves of the dead soldiers, and then the covering with flowers of the mounds which mark the resting places of the dead heroes, will be the main feat-

The Time, the South, and Europe Ready for Straight Commercial Communication. Editor Constitution—For years direct trade with foreign countries has been the dream

Editor Constitution—For years direct trade with foreign countries has been the dream and the effort of the south.

There is no doubt that this hope is now within grasp to proper trial, and it is sure that the time is ripe for it. And a bold, vigorous and concerted effort should be made to get the vast benefit.

The long money stringency here, when plenty, prevails elsewhere, the steady crippling of southern railroads, the stress of the farmers in spite of their big crops, the vassalage of southern interests to wall street and the outlook of foreign dollars to trend southward makes it imperative and timely for the south to free herself from northern money thrall-dom, and seek new trade and other business allies.

to free herself from northern money thralldom, and seek new trade and other business allies.

The south has, from Providence, great ports and deep harbors, connected by shorter lines, usable all the year round, with the gulff and the west. Nature has lavishly favored this section, and equipped her for trade supremacy, giving her the sole production of the world's best staple, endless timber for her own mer chant marine, and inexhaustible iron and coal and other minerals for manufactures.

It is criminal for her not to use her advantages. She has slept long enough,—too long, upon them. The day of her redemption is hers to secure. No power can thwart her if she wills to succeed.

The long-deferred goal is hers to reach, if she but try. Every aim of interest, every hop of relief from evils, every lesson of experience, every impulse of pride, every dictate of sense, gvery law of self-defense, impels her to business, independence and financial relief.

Among the most effective agencies to give these will be direct trade.

Direct trade will afford new sources of money, new markets for our products of every kind, less expense of commerce, fewer middlemen to lessen profit, the transfer of business centers here, multiplied financial avenues.
more good immigration, more and cheaper capital, more trade connections, larger competition of buyers for our goods and producstions, better and more sources from which to buy the goods we want, increase of industries, extended trade relations, relief to our farmers, greater mercantile facilities, business friendships, closer linking of home and foreign interests, the vast Pacific cosst trade, business enlargement, increased accretions of better foreign acquaintance with our resource ness friendships, closer linking of home and foreign interests, the vast Pacific coast trade, business enlargement, increased accretions of revenue for our railways, and a wider and better foreign acquaintance with our resources, and the fine attractions of our country.

Direct trade is the necessity of our condition, and the means of our redemption from northern financial bondage.

What is the sense of our making other sections the conduit of our wares to Europe, and paying unnecessary toil which we can save. It is a folly. The remedy is in our grasp, and we can and must take it.

Our interest is self-evident, and our duty imperative. The time has come to act. The fruit is ripe to pluck. We must reap the harvest.

Governor Northen is in full sympathy with this vital movement, and will aid it by all means in his power.

This article is the beginning of a full discussion of the great matter, and will be followed by others.

ECHOES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Sensible Words from Louis F. Garrard. Editor Constitution—That practical and out-spoken young public man, ex-Speaker Louis F. Garrard, of Columbus, has recently published some words of sense on the political situation.

He gives a timely warning. Referring to the evil days of reconstruction misrule, he correctly sees and dreads, in democratic division; the colored vote becoming a balance of power between warring white factions, and grave trouble ahead for the state.

He points out the composition of the third party, which some of the worthy farmers under financial stress are thoughtlessly looking to as a refuse—a concern largely composed of party, which some of the worthy farmers under financial stress are thoughtlessly looking to as a refuge,—a concern largely composed of female suffragists, socialists, anarchists and republicans, white and black, on a platform whose main plank is a proposition to despoil these distressed farmers out of more millions of already paid pensions for former foeman. He suggests to the farmers a practicable plan to give them financial relief, that takes off the 10 per cent tax on state bank issues, and allows state banks to issue currency, three for one, on state bonds, one-third as ordinary banking capital, one-third for loans on land at 50 per cent of its value, and one-third on cotton at 50 per cent of its value, making the stockholders individually liable for all. There is something in this.

My suggestion is for Mr. Garrard, or some one else, to propose a platform, as I believe can be done, upon which the alliance and non-alliance wings of the democracy can unite harmoniously and stop this hurtful division. I believe the solution is feasible. Concession and conciliation on both sides will bring them together.

Milledgeville, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—
Milledgeville has been all excitement today over the appearance of what was thought to be more mad dogs. Three were killed in the western and two in the eastern part of the city. Since the furore of Friday great precaution has been taken by the cit were bitten Friday have taken up collections to carry them to a madstone at Harlem. A collection was taken up at the

What the Signal Service Knows About the Weather and Crops.

THE SITUATION THROUGH GEORGIA.

Advices from All Sections of the State The Outlook in Special

An interesting and valuable document is the weather crop bulletin of the signal service, and one worth studying.

Here is the one issued yesterday:

A notable and most satisfactory improve-ent in the character of reports is remarked since the inauguration of the system of weather crop report in Georgia five weeks ago. The present condition of the service leaves little to be desired in the way of improvement except in the southern and south-eastern counties, where additional reporters are needed. The co-operation of any interested persons in these sections at points not yet represented will be welcomed.

The past week while it has brought out the foliage with striking rapidity and has advanced the grain and grass crops setting the striking rapidity of the setting the setting of the planting or to the sprouting of seed. It has been characterized by an excessive amount of cloudiness with considerable fog. With all the clouds there has been a deficient rain-fall except in the northern counties and in the south rain is much needed. As would naturally result from the want of sunshine, the temperature has been below the average, although the excessive humidity of the atmosphere has at times given it's muggy and oppressive character. The week opened with decided cold and light frosts occurred in the northern portion of the state on the mornings of the 15th and 16th. The chief damage, which was not great, was suffered by fruit of the 15th and 16th. The chief damage, which was not great, was suffered by fruit trees in bloom and by such cotton as was up. Taken thoughout the state; wheat, oats, rye and grass seem to be in exceptionally fine condition. Corn is somewhat backward for the want of sun and heat, but with favorable weather will probably come up to the average later. The prospect for fruit is fair, and especially so in the central and southern counties. Cotton planting is about finished in the southern counties, and is well under way in the north. The season on an average seems about a week late.

A brief statement follows of the conditions in the various sections of the state: Northwest—There has been a little more than the normal rainfall with low temperature and little sun. Grain and grass are in good condition. Corn is up on the uplands but not planted on the bottoms. Some cotton has been planted. Corn and cotton are ten days late.

Northeast—With but little sunshine there has been about normal rainfall and temperature. Grain is looking well. Corn planting has begun on the bottoms. Fruit trees are in full bloom. Peaches suffered considerable damage from frost on the 16th.

West—Weather generally cool and cloudy, with but little rain. Cotton has been about all planted. Corn is up and at some places is being plowed. It seems in fair condition at present but some replanting has been necessary.

Central—The week has been cloudy but dry.

essary.

Central—The week has been cloudy but dry.
Cotton planting is about done and chopping has commenced. A large crop of sugar cane has been planted. Fruit prospect is good.
East—In this section there has been an almost total absence of rain and the weather somewhat injured by frosts. Prospects for fruit is good.

Southwest—There are many complaints of lack of rain and late oats are reported damaged by the drought.

South—In this section there are the same complaints of the need of rain. The cotton crop is all planted, but that planted within the last ten days can hardly sprout for want of moisture.

South-east—Cool nights have retarded the growth of crops. High winds and absence of rain have dried the ground badly. Cotton, corn and oats are in special need of rain.

Selected Reports from Counties.

Gordon—The freeze of the 16th, further injured fruit and gardens. Farm work is behind in consequence of too much rain keeping the ground wet. About half the corn crop planted. Very little cotton yet. Small grain looking well.

Haralson—Wheat and oats look fine. Cotton about planted. Corn on bottom lands about half. Frosts of the 15th slightly injured fruit but think there is plenty yet.

Douglas—Wheat and oats looking well. A poor stand of corn. Two-thirds of corn planted; Cotton planting has begun in earnest; none up. There is a fair outlook for fruit.

A poor stand of corn. Two-thirds of corn planted; Cotton planting has begun in earnest; none up. There is a fair outlook for fruit.

Fannin—Small grains all look well, but a little backward from the cold of last week. Cora planting fairly on hand. Fruit in full bloom. Prospects good for all crops.

Dawson—Planting of corn is progressing slowly on account of rain. Heavy frost on 16th greatly injured peaches. Cannot tell yet how great the damage to apples.

Wilkes—Small grain growing nicely. Corn regaining its color. Cotton planted and coming up. Recent moderate rains will facilitate good stands.

Coweta—No rain at all for ten days; ground getting hard. Cotton planting about done, but needs rain to bring it up. Corn is now being plowed. Considerable replanting with hoe necessary. Oats and wheat looking well.

Muscogee—Corn has come out wonderfully the last few days. Oats are doing well. Cotton coming and a very good stand in early, planting.

Macon—Stand of corn good, and in fine condition. Cotton on bottom places killed by recent frost. Fruit growing nicely and promises a good yield.

Jones—Cotton planting about through, and would have good stand if we could get rain. Corn being worked. Oats doing very well. The fruit crops are growing fairly but need sunshine to warm the ground to bring up cotton. Cotton seed planting completed. Plowing and hoeing upland corn; stand good. Preparing and planting bottoms in corn. Fruit O. K.

Dodge—Oats are heading out. Cotton coming up. Corn looking well. Fruit crop in good condition. Needs rain.

McDuffle—Chances for a good crop of fruit. Small grain on a boom. Nearly done planting cotton. All crops two weeks in advance of last spring.

Chatham—All crops need rain badly.

Randolph—Late oats are badly damaged. Corn in many ulaces where planted late is not up yet. Same as cotton. Four weeks since it rained.

Mitchell—Corn well up. Some cotton up. Watermelons doing well. Oats heading alightly in spots. Fruit doing well.

Lowndes—Very dry; no r

FOR THEOLD COLLEGE

Two Hundred University Men to Organize.

ATLANTA WILL HAVE A CLUB.

Savannah's Club Will Banquet Tonight. The Movement for Organization to Sweep the State.

pa wevteme mevtepokiwyafsxhvgs bsxhv There are more than two hundred unirersity men in Atlanta.

And they are all talking about the movement now afoot to reorganize the old university club in this city.

The interview with Hon. Peter W. Meldrim, of Savannah, in The Constitution, earing upon the plan of organizing the college men throughout the state, has in-creased the interest, and this thing is certain-that the scheme of reorganizing the Atlanta club is going to be a success. Judge Howard Van Epps, president of Atlanta club, heartily concurs with Mr. Meldrim in the state plan, and hopes to see every Georgia town where seven col lege men can be called together establish without delay a similar club to that in Atlanta and that in Savannah. "I can see at a glance," said Judge Van Epps, "and anybody can see as easily, that these clubs can be of incalculable advantage to the State university, and can also be instrumental in furnishing amusement and instruction to every member of the clubs in every city or town. "One of the benefits to obtain is the favor that can be worked up for the college in these towns. There is nothing like organization. With a club in these various towns organized upon a similar plan with that of Atlanta and Savannah, plan with that of Atlanta and Savannan, there can be a cultivation of frieddliness for the college carried on that will be effective in getting more students to go to college, and in getting parents all over the state to realize at last the great purpose of the state's cherished university.

"I am much in hope that the young men atlanta who went to the university.

in Atlanta who went to the university—and the old ones, too, for that matter—will rally when the call is made and plant our Atlanta club on a firm footing, with at least one hundred and fifty members, and least one hundred and mry members, and keep in rank with Savannah's excellent club. I do hope we will do this."

Judge Van Epps is very much in earnest about the matter, and so are all of the older university men of Atlanta.

The young men will, of course, wheel into line on the night of May 1st, when the meeting of reorganization will be held.

Savannah's Way.

In the city of Savannah where the social spirit runs high and men are inclined to keep up a club like this there is the leading university club in the state.

There are clubs in Angusta, Macon and Rome and other cities, but the Savannah men have managed to keep the interest up to a higher pitch than any others.

It is interesting to see how they conduct their club and the following pointers about the constitution and by-laws of the club will serve a purpose.

First, the club holds meetings quarterly during the year. At these meetings a light

Second, it is a purpose of the club to promote higher education in the state and to mote higher education in the state and to co-operate with the authorities of the uni-versity in building up the college in every way possible.

Third, an annual dinner is given by the club on the day of its anniversary to which prominent alumni are invited from a distance to speak. The purpose of these annual dinners is to cultivate good fellowship among university men.

With such a purpose the Savannah club has been moving along for years most happily and most successfully.

TO ARREST THE AGENTS

Who Offer Bribes to School Boards-Com missioner Bradwell's Circular. Commissioner Bradwell sent out to the missioner Bradwell's Circular.

Commissioner Bradwell sent out to the school boards a circular, calling for the arrest of agents who offer bribes, and warning the school boards against the "Box Charts."

Here is the letter:

To the County School Commissioners of Georgia—I deem it necessary, through you, to call the attention of county boards of education to their powers and duties relative to the purchase of charts for the common schools of their respective counties. County boards of education are clothed with the power to purchase "maps, globes and school furniture;" and while charts are not specially mentioned, they are undoubtedly included under this head, for a chart is a map. These things are purchased for the common use of the schools, and not for individual use. The title to charts along with other common property, vests in the board; and these charts are to be furnished to the schools, the teachers being held responsible for criminal neglect or abuse. Under no circumstances have boards the right to sell or rent them to the teachers or parcons, but they are to be returned to the board at the expiration of the school term.

No teacher in the state pays a cent for the privilege of teaching school under the public school system.

The country school commissioner is the agent of the board, for the delivery of the charts. As agent, he carries out the orders of the board in the propers one to sign all contracts, as agent for the board, for the charts to the schools, and receiving them back at the close of the term. He should report to the board any injury to these charts beyond the orders of the board and receiving them back at the close of charts can only be passed at a regular meeting, or at a called meeting, of which due notice shall be present.

2. The action, either verbal or written, of addidual members of the board outside of an given, and at which there is a legal quorum present.

2. The action, either verbal or written, of individual members of the board outside of an organized meeting of the board, is mull and void, and cannot bind either party at interest.

3. There is no provision for proxies in the school laws, and any count, vote or ballot by proxy is null and void.

As to the duty of boards relative to the purchase of charts, I earnestly advise them to use due care and caution. There can be no question of the value of charts in the hands of efficient teachers, and I trust the time will come when they will be used in every school-room in Georgia. Buy then, provided the money can be spared from the school fund. If the scool fund—not yet adequate for the needs of the children of the state—is taxed too hearly, serious injury will result to the public school system, the children and the teachers.

It is not the intention of this department to

of the children of the state—is taxed too heavily, serious injury will result to the public school system, the children and the teachers.

It is not the intention of this department to interfere with the powers granted to the county boards, but the object of this circular is to give such instructions as, in my judgment, are necessary for the faithful and efficient execution of the law in the exercise of this power, and to caution you, the boards of education, against cectain box charts and the sharp practice of the agents for their sale. This department is reliably informed that these charts have been offered for sale, on the at prices ranging from $47.50 down to $30. Money to loan.

Several other charges are against him which promise to make it an interesting case before it is finally settled.

Certain Facts About "Alaska"

Are Well Worth Considering, When You Compare the Various Kinds of Refrigera-tors Offered to You.

The qualities sought for in a refrigerator are preservation of perishable food and an economical use of ice.

The economical use of ice depends entirely upon the principle involved, the construction of the refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold air.

cold air.

The principal causes of decay in meats and The principal causes of decay in meats and fruits are dampness and varying temperature, causing the expansion and contraction of tissues, which hasten decay; hence a dry atmosphere and uniform temperature conduce to their preservation.

These results can be obtained only by a perfect circulation of the air in the refrigerator, and its condensation in the ice chamber.

The Alaska is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which low temperature and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained.

and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained.

Most refrigerators are so constructed that vapors from various kinds of food are chilled to bead drops of water within the provision chamber. Hence such refrigerators are always damp and deleterious to health.

The Alaska, by its perfect system of warm and cold-air flues, allows nature's principle, that warm air rises and cold air falls, to work in a more complete manner than any other refrigerator built.

The ice rests on a corrugated, galvanized iron rack, which is so constructed as to leave an air passage under the iron.

The warm, damp air in the provision chamber rises through the flues at each end of the ice chamber, comes in contact with the ice at the central opening in the lid flue, becomes colder and drops under the ice rack, where at the central opening in the lid flue, becomes colder and drops under the ice rack, where all moisture is condensed, and falls through the central opening under the ice into the provision chamber, cold and dry. No other system keeps the air as long in contact with the ice as the Alaska does, consequently the Alaska does its work more thoroughly than any other refrigerator.

In the Alaskia no vapors are allowed to remain, but, by a perfect circulation of air.

In the Alaska no vapors are allowed to remain, but, by a perfect circulation of air, they are drawn through the fines into the ice chest and condensed there.

By thus removing the vapor all odor is removed—for the odor is in the vapor—and dry, pure, cold air falls into the provision chamber. The provision chamber of the Alaska never coats from condensation, but is always clean and free from foul odor.

The Alaska has become noted for being entire! free from mould or mildew, or un-

That Grand Lot on Southeast Corner of Pryor and Houston Streets.

AT 12 O'CLOCK

HERE is perhaps one of the most desirable corners in the city of Atlanta. It fronts on Peachtree, Pryor and Houston streets in the most attractive way imaginable, is right under the very eaves of the great Equitable building that cost a cold million, while just a few hundred feet to the south a magnificent Masonic temple is soon to be erected on one corner and The Atlanta Journal will put up a modern structure on the opposite corner of Wheat and Pryor that will be unsurpassed by anything in this country. Now is certainly a most opportune time to place money in the heart of this growing and prosperous city. We all know that the gradual enhancement of real estate beats any business in the world, especially when you buy in the right place. Every inch of this lot is worth big money, and the day will never come when it can be bought cheaper than now. Then buy it and take in the benefits. The men that have the nerve to back their own judgment and buy good real estate on Pryor street are bound to grow rich. Atlanta is just in her infancy. Her great waterworks will add 25,000 population to this city. Values must necessarily increase. Buy now or pay more later. Terms, one-third cash, balance on time. Lot 100x104 feet.

For Sale On the Premises Monday, May 2, 1892.

A Very Valuable Lot, 45x90 Feet On Pryor Street,

JUST OPPOSITE the courthouse. A 20-foot alley runs from Pryor west along the entire south line, making the lot accessible and capable of being thoroughly ventilated and lighted. Here is the place to build stores and offices. The old station house has dropped into hands that will properly improve and beautify it. The stables on the opposite side are now giving way to progress, and soon the present enterprising owner will run up a splendid eight-story house visavist he magnificent Kiser block that will rival any structure in the south. Cast your eyes up and down Pryor street. Millions of dollars have already been spent on the street, and yet the work is hardly begun. Pryor today has no equal in Atlantas grander possibilities belong to Pryor than any street in this city. Doubtless a very large sum of money will be expended at once in enlarging the courthouse, which is just opposite this lot. Business houses are in great demand right now. On this block can be had men that are able and willing to any liberal rents for first-class city stores or offices. REMEMBER the influx of capital and population causes a constant, steady increase in Atlanta real estate values.

THE SHEEHAN ESTATE

Here is central gilt-edged rent-paying real estate right in the very heart of Atlanta to be sold to the highest bidder in order to make a division among the heirs, otherwise money could not buy it. The block corner of Decatur and Ivy streets

The bold position this corner holds and the general topography of all these corners makes this one the central gem of all. With a suitable front of display windows this would make a grand place for a first-class jewelry or creckery business. Simply because this jace has not been more elabocately built it is no reason on earth why it does not contain grand possibilities. Proper buildings always insure the proper renter. There is a big come out for this property. There is a big come out for this property. A Cold-Blooded Outrage.

The president's action in making himself ex-officio chairman of a New York negro committee engaged in the compila tion of campaign material, intended to array northern public opinion against the south, is about the meanest thing that a republican partisan has ever been guilty of.

As The Chicago Times puts it: The southern outrage factory has been stock campaign material for the republican party ever since the period of reconstruction, but never has there been so cold-blooded a propo-sition as that which the president makes to the negroes. It is in substance that they shall become without expense to him the com-pilers of campaign material which shall fire the northern heart at the proper time in the presidential canvass.

It is a cold-blooded outrage perpetrated by a small politician to serve his purely selfish aims.

The president of the American people deliberately promises a party of negro politicians that, when they furnish him with their one-sided story of the alleged southern outrages upon their race, he will assist in creating a public sentiment that will make such outrages impossible.

There has never been anything like this in our history before. When General Grant was president he heard of an alleged outrage upon the blacks in Louisiana. The republican leaders raised a howl and asked him what he was going to do about it. He looked into the matter, and talked with some of his old soldierstruthful, manly fellows-and satisfied himself that the whites were clearly justified. That was enough for him, and he refused to do anything. Moreover, he expressed his admiring approval of the pluck of the Louisianians, and said that they had done exactly right.

General Grant understood the situation. and he was very human, with no cold and flabby nonsense about him. A brave and true man, though a stalwart republican, ought to be able to sympathize with his fellow countrymen in the south when they suffer such irreparable and herrible wrongs at the hands of black brutes that they are almost nameless, and cannot be narrated in print. The average southerner is a good citizen, but when he returns to his plantation or village home, after a day's work, to find that his wife or his little girl has fallen a victim to some prowling negro outlaw, nothing but swift and terrible justice will satisfy him. His neighbors share his feeling and make his cause their Human nature, Mr. President, cannot stand everything. The husbands, fathers and brothers of the south, sir, have the you and your republican friends of the north feel towards the female members of your families. They are satisfied-they know-that you would do just what they do if you were similarly situated. Some crimes must be punished or the result will be anarchy. The punishment must be swift and certain. The law's delay, the chances of defective indictments escapes from jail, the absence or death of an important witness must not be risked. When the perpetrator of the foulest and most demoniacal of all crimes is captured and identified we pity the mistaken judgment that would interfere with the noble private vengeance which serves the public, serves virtue and serves jus tice better than any other human agency could.

Think this over, Mr. President, and embrace the first opportunity of saying to your negro followers: "When you cease to be midnight assassins and ravishers you will have no more outrages to complain of. If you are determined to maintain a secret crusade of murder against your white neighbors, your benefactors who give you work, and who are taxed for your education and support-if you will despoil their homes, then you will be left to your fate, and all races, all parties and all good men will applaud the terrible punishment visited upon you for your revolting crimes!"

When your heart prompts you to say that, you will be indeed a man, and a leader of men!

Centralization and Socialism. In the federal supreme court, the other day, in the case of O'Neil vs. Vermont,

Mr. Justice Harlan said: I fully concur with Mr. Justice Field that sirce the adoption of the fourteenth amendment no one of the fundamental rights of life, liberty or property recognized and guaranteed by the constitution of the United States can be denied or abridged by a state in respect to any person within its jurisdiction. These rights are principally enumerated in the earlier amendments of the constitution.

earlier amendments of the constitution.

Mr. Justice Brewer sided with these two, making three members of the supreme court who hold that state authortty in criminal cases must give way to national supremacy. In the near these three justices may be reinforced by two more, and then our jury system and fundamental rights affecting life, liberty and property will be transferred from state to federal control. We are drifting in that directiontowards the annulment of state sovereignty in matters in which it was not isputed until a few years ago.

So much for the march of centralization. The next favorite doctrine of the supreme court is socialism. Sixteen years ago, in the case of Munn vs. Morris, the court practically declared that when a business ned the public, the public had a to fix the terms upon which the business should be conducted. Recently, this doctrine has been reaffirmed in the case of Budd vs. New York, with three

The Richmond Times thus comments on the decision:

The source of this doctrine is very plain. The court is a yankee court and it represents yankee ideas. But while the yankee has no idea of introducing the socialists' theories into our government, he does not perceive that his own fixed instincts lead up directly to socialistic results. The yankee has a fixed belief that it is my duty to attend to your business; that it is A's duty to make B a better man by forcing B to live according to A's idea rather than according to his own. He inherited his instinct from his Puritan ancestors, and is incapable of throwing it off. It goes with the yankee wherever he goes, and turns up on every occasion. The source of this doctrine is very plain turns up on every occasion.

We repeat, then, that paradoxical as it may appear the supreme court of the United States is the fountain head of the socialists of the United States and, unless the pernicious doctrine that it has put out can be overthrown, it threatens to become a foundation upon which the socialist will erect a structure that will overthrow all our institutions and bring

One of the dissenting justices, Mr. Justice Brewer, said:

The paternal theory of government is to me odious. The utmost possible liberty to the individual, and the fullest possible protection to him and his property, is both the limitation and duty of government. If it may regulate the price of one service, which is not a public service, or the compensation for the use of one kind of property which is not devoted to a public use, why may it not with cound results. a public use, why may it not with equal rea-son regulate the price of all service and the compensation to be paid for the use of all property? And if so, "Looking Backward" is nearer than a dream.

Centralization and socialism bid fair to overwhelm us through the active agency of the federal supreme court. What congress has failed to do may be accomplish ed by "bench law!"

Two Strange Cases. There were two notable suicides in Illinois, last week. E. L. Gage, of Texas, a wealthy land and cattle owner, took poison at a hotel in Chicago, because his money was tempo rarily tied up, and he was dunned for his board. Money was coming to him in a few days, and he could easily have borrowed what he needed as his credit was good. But his temporary embarrassment and the duns made him nervous and despondent, and he sought death as refuge.

The other man was E. T. Oliver, a rich merchant in Springfield. His affairs were in good order, but nervous prostration followed an attack of the grip. So he killed himself.

These men were middled aged, good citizens with families, and nobody dreamed that they would ever do anything rash or reckless.

The fact is, this American disease of nervousness is looming up as an alarming evil. And there is no help for it in sight. Our rushing, feverish life breaks people down, ages them at forty, and drives them to suicide, the lunatic asylums or into early graves.

But there is no hope for it. So long as dollars are the prizes offered for overwork and worry men will risk anything to win them.

Thirty-nine democrats voted with the republicans to unseat a democratic congressman. It was a beautiful and an inspiring spectacle. For once the mugwumps have been beaten at their chosen game of mugwumping.

It is to be remembered that no republican made an argument in behalf of Noves. They left that part of the entertainment democrats who desired to pay the tribute of imitation to the mugwumps. Editor Watterson again lifts up his voice and says that it would be suicidal for the democrats to nominate Cleveland. Those who think that the election is nore important than a nomination are not willing to sacrifice the party to Cleveland-

The Valdosta Times is so completely under the influence of the Cleveland hoodoo that it mistakes its opinions for informa-It says Cleveland can carry New York and Indiana, and thinks that ought to settle the matter.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "On the Plantation," by Joel Chandler Harris, published by D. Appleton & Co., New York, is a delightful story of a Georgia boy's adventures during the war, into which the author has cleverly woven a great variety of odds and ends of folk lore of both the white and black races. It is a rambling, charmingly phrased story of a boy who about the opening of the civil war went with a man of brains and culture to learn "the newspaper busi-ness" in the publication of a weekly paper issued, curiously enough, away out on a plantation nine miles from any postoffice. The description of the modus vivendi of this rate description of the modus vivendi of this paper is deliciously quaint. The peculiarities of the negroes and their fantastic dialect are especially felici-tously sketched, while the inestimable worth of truth, and honesty, and justice in the building of character shines out delightfully from the first to the last. A picture no reader can forget is that of the Georgia boy sitting on a fence watching the dingy but good-humored ranks of the Twentleth army corps pass by on the "march through Geor gia," with the merry chaff thrown to the solemn boy as they marched by. GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

There was a mistake in The Constitution's eport vesterday in regard to Clarke county's lelegation being instructed to vote for the ending of uninstructed delegates to Chicago. sending of uninstructed delegates to Chicago. In talking with a reporter one of the delegates yesterday gave it as his opinion that this matter would rest entirely with the delegation after it reached Atlanta. The resolutions send the delegates to the state convention uninstructed, but as to the sending of delegates to Chicago, nothing is said. Whatever the delegates do will be done as a unit, and may be relied on to be in the interest of democracy. nocracy.

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Clarke county is getting in some good work in behalf of the party. President W. B. Burnett has arranged his list of speakers, and a thorough convex of the district of the county of the speakers. thorough canvass of the district will be made. Speeches have already been made by members of the club at Athens, High Shoals and Harmony Grove, and tonight two of the speakers will address the democratic club of Apple Valley, Jackson county. On Thursday night Captain Burnett will speak to the democrats of Nicholson, Jackson county. On the first Tuesday in May the club will have speakers at Washington, Watkinsville, Jefferson and Lexington. They are going in for the

The vote and speech of Congressman Lawson, of the eight congressional district, in the Rockwell-Noyes case, has stirred up the feelings of many of the democrats, and the resolution to endorse him was stricken from the resolutions of the Clarke county conven-tion. As to whether Congressman Lawson will be nominated is, of course, a matter that will be settled only by the conventions of the different counties, but he has an active exponent in Colonel J. N. Worley, of Elbert, and Editor Harper, of The Elberton Star, claims that Worley will go into the co Star, claims that Worley will go into the convention with sixteen votes, just one short of a nomination and that he may probably carry more counties. Things are lively in the eighth, and will be much livelier.

The first Tuesday in May will be a red-letter day in the democratic circles of northeast Georgia. Hall, Jackson, Oconee, Oglethorpe and Wilkes counties will hold rousing democratic rallies. Especial interest is being taken in the meeting in Oconee and Jackso two counties strongly claimed by the third party. Great preparations are being made for these meetings. The Oconee county men are determined to organize thoroughly at once, and the Jackson county democrats are already on the move.

This promises to be a lively week in Lincolution. Court will be in session and this, of course, will attract a large crowd. The democrats and third partyites will have some ical speeches made during the session of the court. And then to wind up on, there is the big democratic mass meeting on Saturday, which promises to be one of the biggest polittical meetings ever known in the country.

The McDuffle Journal, which heretofore has not taken much interest in the campaign is out in a ringing editorial declaring its "the old and still vigorous de ocratic party, whose principles are immortal because they are right." All the more significance will be attached to this when it is remembered that The Journal is published in Congressman Watson's own town, and in what has been claimed to be the strongest third party county in the state.

A political goosip in The Cleveland Progress says that candidates for the house and sen-ate from White county, are backward in annour.cing. He says that the man who goes to the legislature from that section must vote to have the Paddock bill which has passed the senate and is now before the knocked into atoms; also the "equalization" law passed by the last general assembly. The writer adds: "I heard a man remark the other day that Commissioner Kytle would sweep the thing clean, should he become a candidate for the senate. It is rumored that Editor Christopher, of The Montezuma Record, will be the third party candidate for congress in his district. The alliances in Lowndes county have rescinded their resolutions endorsing the third party. They are Pine Grove and Pool alli-

The democrats of Douglas county will organize democratic clubs in every district.

The Dawson News says that the retirement of Judge Guerry from the congressional race in the second district has created more than ordinary interest, because he requests his friends to support Colonel Wooten as the race is now made up. It was thought by some that when Judge Guerry retired he would throw his influence to Mr. Stevens, and when it became known that he would still oppose that gentle-man, though not in the race himself, specula-would have. The News says:

"A great many are of the opinion that Colonel Wooten's chances are materially brightened, while others seem to think that it will have but little effect either one way or the other. One thing is certain, however, and that is, in those counties in which Judge Guerry was the strongest his friends have turned, enthusiastically, their support to Colonel Wooten, and predict that under his leadership they will be victorious. Mr. Stevens and his friends, however, do not appear to be at all uneasy, and say that the Terrell gentleman will carry every county in the district except one or two. As the campaign progresses it becomes more interesting, and there now promises to be a number of new developments before the nominating convention meets."

FIRST TRAIN IN.

The Georgia, Carolina and Northern Opened Yesterday.

HOURS TO ELBERTON. FOUR

A Sketch of the Trip Made by th Initial Passenger Train Over the New Line,

The first passenger train into Atlanta over the Georgia, Carolina and Northern road arrived yesterday morning on schedule

It was the Elberton accommodation and it came to a stop at Inman Park at 10 o'clock, eastern time, having made the run from Elberton in four hours.

The Constitution man boarded the train at Athens. The train was made up of two coaches and a baggage coach, and was in charge of Conductor J. C. Cothran, of Abbeville, S. C., a railroader of ten years' ex-perience and a most affable gentleman. Engineer J. P. Garrison was at the throttle, H. W. Droffin was the baggagemaster and R. D. Izzard, flagman. Mr. D. L. Hud-gins, superintendent of the telegraph ser-vice of the road, was on board the train. The roadbed is certainly excellent, the riding smooth and easy, and the trip between Athens and Atlanta was a very pleasan one. The country through which it passes pleasant is a prosperous section of the state, and the little towns along the road are building up very rapidly. Evidences of great improve ment were to be seen on all sides as the train sped on towards the Gate City. The stations between Athens and Atlanta are Bogart, Statham, Jug Tavern, Auburn, Dacula, Lawrenceville, Gloster, Bryan, Tucker, North Decatur and Inman Park. The beneficial effect of the road is apparent in the amount of building going on at each of these places, and at Jug Tavern the quarries are being rapidly developed.

At each station the citizens were gathered wave their greetings to the new train, and as it rolled through Decatur, Kirkwood and on to Inman Park, numberles handker-chiefs were waved by fair hands as a token of welcome. Over one hundred and fifty passengers came over on the first trip. They took the electric cars at Inman Park and came into the city.

The schedules now in force and effect on the Georgia, Carolina and Northern are as follows: Two freight trains per day—the Elberton accommodation, leaving Elberton at 6 o'clock a. m., eastern time, and arriving in Atlanta at 10 o'clock a. m.; leaving Atlanta at 4:25 o'clock p. m., arriving in Elberton at 8:25 o'clock p. m. Also train, daily except Sunday, leaving Charlotte at 8 o'clock a. m., arriving in Atlanta at 7 o'clock p. m.; leaving Atlanta at 9 o'clock a. m., arriving in Charlotte at 8 o'clock p. m.

The arrival of the first regular passenger train in Atlanta over the Georgia, Carolina and Northern is greeted with a hearty welcome, and it will not be very long until the road will run into the heart of the city.

President John W. Robinson, of the Ser board Air-Line system came in during the day and General Superintendent L. T. Myers, of Portsmouth, was down in his car.

Mr. Robinson said that he was greatly gratified to see the new road finally opened to Atlanta. He now has a system to be proud of. It is the shortest route from Atlanta to the north and the road is in fine physical condition.
Undoubtedly the Georgia, Carolina and Northern on its opening day was in far better condition than any other railroad ever built in this part of the country. All the work was done in first-class style. Trains can make as fast time on

The Georgia, Carolina and Northern has cost about six million dollars and it is strong cost about six minon donars and it is strong financially. It runs through a country which will give fine local business and no road ever started with finer prospects of success. The officials of the road have already earned a reputation for being obliging—and that of itself draws traffic.

Passenger traffic from Atlanta for New York will be handled either by a through car service or rail to Portsmouth and ships car service or rail to Portsmouth from there to New York.

Steamer connections will also be made at Portsmouth for Baltimore. Providence and Boston.

The lines of the Seaboard system are:

A Special Excursion Will Go to the Bridge Opening, May 12th.

A special train will leave Atlanta May given and a large excursion is expected to go from this section to the bridge opening, which takes place May 12th.

Among the notables who will come through Atlanta over the Richmond and Danville May 11th, on their way to Memphis by the Georgia Pacific, will be:

Secretary of War Elkins, Secretary of Navy Tracy, Speaker Crisp, Senators

Burrows, Henderson, Storer, Fellows and Williams.

Senator Voorhees will deliver the oration of the day. The bridge will be tested by sending fifteen heavy locomotives over it and immediately afterwards a train of through freight from Kansas City will cross and come on to Atlanta. A United States man-of-war will be at Memphis and three days will be given up to the celebration. The citizens have raised $50,000 for the celebration. A banquet will be tendered the distinguished visitors on the night of May 12th, and $10,000 worth of fireworks will be let off. There will be civic parades and a pageant, in which a number of the mardi gras floats will be seen.

Collided With a Wild Engine.

Lapeer, Mich., April 24.—A collision between a freight train and a wild engine running at full speed on the Chicago and Grand Trunk railway occurred three miles west of here yesterday afternoon and causothers were injured. The cars were piled up high by the force of the collision and it is thought that other trainmen are underneath the wreck.

Birmingham, Ala., April 24.—Charles Stoner, land commissioner of the Louisville and Nashville Hailroad Company, is under arrest charged with being a defaulter to the amount of over six thousand dollars. Stoner is one of the most popular young men in Birmingham. He has been playing poker and indulging in other vices. His shortage was a great surprise to this community.

To Build a New Line Raleigh, N. C., April 24.—(Special.)— The Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley rail-road has recorded in Kershaw county, South Carolina, a five-million-dollar mort-gage, and will build a line from Bennetts-ville to Columbia.

ETCHED AND SKETCHED.

The Florida tourist season is over, and the procession is passing northward through Atlants. A gentleman who spent the winter at St. Augustine says that there were more vistors and more wealth there this year than itors and more wealth there this year than ever before.

Mr. Flagler's hotels, the Ponce de Leon, which closed ten days ago, and the Alcazar, have been thronged. It was no unusual thing to see the owners of $200,000,000 in a dining room at one time. Frequently there was nearly double that amount represented. Young John Jacob Astor and his wife, representing one hundred million dollars of wealth, spent a month in the ancient city. Mrs. Astor's dresses were conspicuous for their simplicity. She and her husband are wealthy enough to be thoroughly independent, and they were. Mrs. Astor wore simple little muslin and gingham dresses, and was often to be seen in tennis costume. She did not muslin and gingham dresses, and was often to be seen in tennis costume. She did not take her baby or even a maid down, and she and Mr. Astor spent a great part of their time playing tennis, riding, driving and in the bathing pool. Mr. Astor dressed plainly, too. He and his wife got along with one room, $4 aplece for each. He said he could not afford to take a suite, and he did not even have a vector with a bath attached.

not afford to take a suite, and he did not even have a room with a bath attached.

Mrs. Clifton R. Scudder, of St. Louis, wore the most magnificent gowns seen at the Ponce de Leon this season. She and Mr. Scudder were on their bridal trip. She was Miss Mary Belle Lowman, and had many friends and admirers in Atlanta. She is a tall, graceful, beautiful girl, and attracted second of extention. around Ormond on the Halliax. The Scudders have immense wealth, and the family is noted for its generous charities.

The Pullmans were pleasant folks, too. Mrs. Pullman, Miss Pullman, Miss Harriet Pullman and the son, Sangor, went down early in their private car. Mrs. Pullman is an invalid. Her daughters are lovely young women but not heauties, though were sood. vomen, but not beauties, though wery good looking. The young ladies wore elegant gowns and received great attention from the gentlemen. Sangor Pullman is an affable young man, who dresses stylishly and is quite democratic—unlike some of the scious of enormous fortunes who were at St. Augus-tine. In March he took the car home, and his father, George Pullman, the head of the ous car company, returned in it and spent or three weeks at the Ponce de Leon.

The Armours, of Chicago, were among the wealthiest guests at the Alcazar, but they did not mingle with the others much. They are nouveaux riches, and the members of the old aristocracy of wealth held aloof from them. They were not in the riding parties or the tennis games, and spent the most of their time by themselves, reading or driving. They did not make any lavish display of their money, and did not seem to pay any attention to the other millionaires. A story is told of young Phil Armour, who spoke sharply to a at dinner one day. The waiter had eceived notice that he would be discharged that night, and was impertinent. He resented the way he was addressed and retorted: "Mr. Jack Astor over there never orders us around that way."

The Armours passed through Atlanta one day last week in their private car going Mr. and Mrs. Flagler were the leading notables. Mr. Flagler was pleasant to every-body. Mrs. Flagler was pleasant to every-body. Mrs. Flagler wore beautiful gowns and entertained hospitably, endearing herself to the visitors and the town people. Mrs. Flagler was accompanied by Miss Grace Dobson, of Boston, and Miss LaMont, of New York. Mrs. Flagler's cotilions, dinners and parties were charming.

arties were charming. Harry, the only child of the Flaglers, came down from Columbia college for two weeks. He is a bright, manly young man of good taste, and not spoiled by wealth. He is rather reserved among those with whom he is not well acquainted, and does not appear to care for a great fortune.

Miss King, of Chicago, wa beauty of the season. She dressed richly and was always a striking figure. She was ac-companied by her mother.

Another belle was Miss Kate C. Howell, he daughter of a millionaire of Hamilton, O. Her gowns were elegant and her jewels superb. All who met her fell in love with this charming young lady.

One could not turn around without elbowing a millionaire. Among those who were at the hotels the longest were: Mrs. Stiles Burton Holmes and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Havemeyer and their graceful, beautiful daughter, all prominent in Chicago society; Mrs. Napoleon Bonaparte Buford, widow of General Buford, of Chicago; Mrs. Pickering, widow of Commodore Pickering, of New Hampshire; William Aspinwail, a New York swell; Lord Romelly and his friend, Lord Beaumont, of England; George Conditt Hampshire; William Aspinwail, a New York swell; Lord Romelly and his friend, Lord Beaumont, of England; George Conditt Smith, of Royal Baking Powder; Frank Siddalis and the elder Pyle, of soap fame; Douglass, the wealthy shoe man, whose features are familiar to all readers of newspaper advertising columns; J. Haskell Searles, manufacturer of straw goods, who tipped the waiters at the Cordova $175 the day he left; E. D. Allin, the diamond broker, of New York; J. B. Hoyt, the leather manufacturer, of New York and Stamford, Copn.

Miss M. L. Allyn, the only woman in the world who owns a typewriting factory, stopped at the Ponce de Leon three months. There were no bluer bloods at St. Augustine than Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cutting, representatives of one of the old Knickerbocker families. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Willoughby came down in one of their yachts and had their stable of fine horses. Mr. Willoughby is a son of ex-Governor Willoughby. The Willoughbys have a mansion at Saratoga and cottages at Newport and St. Augustine.

From Lenox to St. Augustine comes every year the handsome Mrs. G. W. Folsom and her two lovely daughters. They lived at the Carr cottage, on the bay, where they gave frequent receptions and cottilions.

Mrs. Abbott and her two daughters, of Montreal, represented the first society of Canada.

William Howland Pell, one of the leading club men of America, was down from New York, while his chum, Ward McAllister, spent a part of the season a few miles away. Mr. Hugh Bacter, the Fifth avenue swell, was the "catch" of the season, but no belle caught him and his fortune. The Warden mansion was closed, the

Mr. C. C. Nichols left yest through the west. He will visit Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Paul and St. Louis. Mr. Nichols is probably the most successful man of his age in the newspaper advertising line, and his new position as business manager of The Sunny South naturally extends the wide field which he covers as the representative of The Constitution.

Colonel Bob Whitheld, of Baldwin, was in Atlants yesterday circulating among his dozens of friends in the city. It will be learned with profound regret that he has decided not to run for the legislature from Baldwin county next time. Few members of the last house were better or more conscientious lawmakers than Bob Whitfield, of Baldwin, and his county will find it exceedingly difficult to find assuccessor that will serve as he served.

As Heard from Atlanta's Churches Yesterday

IN THE GLORIOUS WORSHIP OF GOD.

Inspiring Anthems of the Christian Religion, and Great Truths Eloquently Expounded.

In his morning sermon at the Second Baptist church yesterday, Dr. McDonald reviewed the history of modern missions, especially that part of this history which is the work of American Baptists, particularly the southern Baptist convention. The sermon was, in part, a sketch of the con-vention which will meet here next week, and as the subject is full of timely interest, a synopsis of Dr. McDonald's remarks will be read with interest.

The text was taken from the thirteenth chapter of Acts, which contains the com-mission of Barnabas and Saul as missionaries to the Gentiles. Antioch was the place from which they started out on their first missionary journey, and became the base of their operations It was a populous city, one of the gate cities of the east, and it fell to the lot of the Antioch church to corroborate the divine commission of these first missionaries.

"It is interesting and instructive to study the beginnings of great movements," said Dr. McDonald, "the beginning of a nation's life, the beginning of a religious movements. The beginning of struggle for civil freedom, the beginning of the church was at Jerusalem, when Christ said, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations." For a time, however, the work seems to have halted at Jerusalem, but persecution came and scattered the disciples, who became brands to set the world on fire. Antioch was a large and populous city, one of the gate cities from the east, and from them the missionaries went, out to the heathen world." first missionary journey, and became the them the missionaries went, out to the heathen world."

The Local Church Is Sovereign.

At this point, Dr. McDonald turned aside to throw some light on the democratic form of govenrment in the Baptist church.

"The missionaries went out from the church at Antioch," said he, "it was a local church. Here I call your attention to the form of the work of the southern Baptist convention, and to the relations of the district association, the state convention and the southern Baptist convention to the local church.

"There is no higher ecclesiastical power than the local church fulfilling the law of God. The district association, the state convention are no part of the ecclesiastical machine. The relations of churches in the larger organizations are voluntary and cotoperative. The convention is not an ecclesiastical authority; it is not a qourt of appeal; it is no part of our divinely recognized order. These organizations do not represent the sovreignity of the churches at all, whether it is a little association gathered in the shadow of Stone Mountain, or the great southern Baptist convention drawn from the mountains to the sea. It is a voluntary gathering of Baptists to attend to those matters which can be dealt with better in this way than by isolated churches. I glory in the absolute independence of the churches from all other ecclesiastical government as I glory in the absolute dependence of the churches upon the Lord Jesus Christ as the only lawgiver. I say this that the young people may not confound these Baptist organizations with other bodies having ecclesiastical authority.

Leaving the subject of the southern Baptist convention for a time, Dr. McDonald referred to the beginning of modern missions in the work of William Carey, who, in his Indian work, met with the opposition of "the East India company, a tyramical and anti-Christian concern."

Baptiat Convention Originated in Missions.

"The brightest chapter in the history of the nineteenth century," said the doctor, "is the triumph of the gospel in that oriental country. Such was the opposition to missionaries in England that they had to come to America to take ship for India. Adoniram Judson and his wife went from Salem in 1812 and Luther Rice went from Philadelphia at the same time. They went on different ships, and in the providence of God, when they came to Semaphore, they had to consider their ecclesiastical relations, Judson's mind had undergone a complete change on the way and Baptist Convention Originated in Missions.

when he got there he demanded baptism. Luther Rice, in another vessel, had reached the same conclusion. The East India company persecuted them and they had to sail from France. Judison took up the mission work in Burmah, and Rice, seeing the necessity for the support of the work at home, returned to America and stirred up Baptist enthusiasm and organization. He remained in this country to the day of his death and devoted his life to the work of creating a missionary interest. His grave is somewhere in North Carolina, and, so far as I know, unmarked. He went out in 1812 and returned in 1814. Interest among Baptists had been quickened and they formed a general Baptist union for missionary work. At the first meeting they had twenty-seven preachers and seven laymen."

Here Dr. MpDonald could not resist the temptation to crack a joke and as he thought of the Baptist host that will gather here next week and recalled the twenty-seven preachers and seven laymen who met in 1814 to organize the first Baptist convention in America, he remarked, "A very convenient number to have here next week." Continuing, he said:

"Then came the question of politics, with the discussion of slaveholding by northern Baptists. It came about that no southern man could be an officer of the Baptist union if he owned slaves. They would not receive money from a man who had his cotton fields worked by slaves. Finally wise men sides determined that they must separate, not as churches, for the churches were separate already, but in the missionary organization. It was plain that a man from the south could not go into New England and raise much money for missionary organization. It was plain that a man from the southern Baptists to see what would be done. That convention met in Augusta in May, 1845. A mission society met in the north in April, just one month before. At the Augusta convention for the southern Baptist convention was formed and it has combined the work of all these years has the missionary work been conducted by the Baptist union of th

The Working Gear of the Convention. "Under our congregational form of government, we can never have ecclesiastical questions appealed and disputed from court to court, creating a disturbance all the way.

"The southern Baptist convention has three boards for evangelical work. The foreign mission board, located at Richmond for years, conducts the work in China, Africa, Japan, South America, Brazil, Mexico and of late years in Rome, gathering additional missionary forces all these years and constantly occupying fresh ground. The dust of many good men who spent their lives in the missionary work, now lies on the soil of China. The southern Baptists never honored a man more than Matthew Gates, of North Carolins. He was a farmer boy, and often as he followed the plow, his compassion for the heathen brought tears to his eyes. He graduated at Wakeforest college and went to China as a missionary. His example has had such influence in his state that North Carolina has sent out more missionaries that any southern state. The picture of Matthew Gates hangs on the walls in the associations of that state and he is held up as an example and inspiration. When Rome passed under the flag of the house of Savoy through the efforts of Cavour, the great Italian statesman, who was the intellectual equal of the iron chancellor, Bismarck, as the legions of United Italy marched into the eternal city, American men tramped with them, carrying Bibles for sale. One of our best men, Dr. George B. Taylor, was sent there to take charge of the Baptist mission work and has done so with great wisdom and success.

"In Mexico, where the people have been deceived by priests and politicians, there was a turning of hearts toward something that would give freedom. The clerical party turned toward the party that would sustain them. That was always the conservative party. The clericals stood by the rulers, the men of iron hand, while the people desired a republic; and hence it was that there was opened a way for men who would preach the gospel and sang, 'hands off the church'

"So it was in Cuba, when the Cuban people, despising the unions of foreign power and sniffling the air of freedom, that blows across the Gulf of Mexico, turned away from Spain."

Dr. McDonald spoke in eulogistic terms of the work of Miss Lottle Moon and Mr. Truitt, who went to spend their, lives in China. He also referred to the work of the home mission board through Martin Sumner, Dr. McIntosh, Dr. Tichenor and Dr. J. William Jones. Referring to the work of the southern Bapti numph.

The "kingdom of God" referred to in the sermon was not "meat and drink, but right-eousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost."

It is a spiritual kingdom, but not unreal or It is a spiritual kingdom, but not unreal or vague. Love is spiritual, and we our selves are spiritual. It is a kingdom of truth and freedom, not of force or fear. It draws by the sweetness of its love, persuasive, because of fact and reason. Utterly at variance to an endeavor to drive or scare any one into-it. The kingdom has an organic law: "Thou shalt love the Lord with all thy heart, thy neighbor as thyself." Whoever keeps this law has the righteousness of the kingdom. Some lives are so filled with five that it is heard in the tones of the voice, seen in every act, and is perceived in the atmosphere they create around them. phere they create around them.

It is a kingdom of thought and reason, not of force—of truth, not of credulity—of love, It is a kingdom of thought and reason, not of force—of truth, not of credulity—of love, not tyranny.

Some of the evidences of its being in our midst and making its way over the earth are: First, war is declining, and peace reigns. The Behring sea troubles are much more serious than most people are aware, and a hundred years ago would have caused a bloody war between the two nations.

But those in charge will rule their spirits, will be temperate and thoughtful, careful to get all the facts and settle the matter in accordance with law and reason, showing how the leaven of the kingdom is working for universal peace.

And every time you rule your own spirit in the office, at home, in the church, business, or in society you are promoting the kingdom of God, and becoming a home and foveign missicnary.

Another evidence of growth is tolerance in religious belief.

Phillip Schaff says that the greatest, deep-foreign missicnary.

Another evidence of growth is tolerance in religious belief.

Phillip Schaff says that the greatest, deepest and most comforting word in the Bible is, "God is love," and the greatest fact in history is its manifestation in Jesus Christ. The doctrine of today is built on the rock of a redeemed race, not on the ruins of a fallen race. The church today endeavors to give the people the truth and concede to them their right and privilege to make their own good use of it. Religion is less ritualistic but not less worshipful—less emotional, more ethical. Conduct and character are placed above profession and formality.

Love is becoming a power among men, not only in compassion as shown in hospitals for the sick, asylums for helpless and homes for the friendless, but love is being recognized as a necessary principle among equals in business and in society. The society will not prosper or live long based on the rotton foundation of "every one for himself." The motto for today is "all for each, each for all." The counsel, "Work hard, save all you can and teach your children the same" is unmitigated selfishness leading to barbarism. "God and my right" is the British motto, and how you got the right is indicated in the attitude of the lion and unicorn. It has been an age of rights; women, slaves, miners and labor have stood up for their rights, and good has come of it. A successful co-operative society in France publishes a journal, and its title is not "The Commune," nor "The Red." but it is "Duty."

And over the world men are asking what is my duty? as well as my right.

This is the wheat. In some respects the tares are growing worse. Both may grow until the harvest.

These things are true where Jesus Christ is Savior, and obeyed as Lord. Press on. We are passing through the dawn of a better day.

Christian Church. Christian Church.

There was a large and appreciative congregation at the Christian church yesterday to greet Rev. Thomas Munnell, of Kentucky, who preached in the absence of the pastor.

Dr. A. G. Thomas read the morning lesson, and conducted the communion service in his own impressive way.

Dr. Munnell's sermon was one of unusual power and practical application. He comes to Georgia for a protracted visit, and will do a good work in the evangelical field.

At St Philip's.

Dr. T. C. Tupper preached to a large congregation at St. Philip's yesterday morning.

The music was superb, a special programme having been arranged for the day, which was charmingly and faultlessly rendered.

Dr. Tupper preached from St. Luke, 24; 16—"Christ's Walk to Emmaus."

Christ's Walk to Emmaus with two unknown disciples on the evening of His resurrection, leaving the metropolitan city, which was all in commotion over the rumors of the seals of the sepulchre being broken and its great stone rolled away, with an angel guarding the spot, is full of lessons to the devout soul.

soul.

The resurrection preacher and the revealer of the resurrection spends one-half of the day in demonstrating to two men the spirituality of His kingdom, but that long walk to Finnaus had done its work for all generations in teaching the fact of the supernatural and the distinction of belief only through sense and the happiness of belief through faith in the risen Christ.

The line of Dr. Tupper's remarks suggested many new thoughts.

The sermon was in Dr. Tupper's strongest vein, and held the closest attention of those who listened to him.

was full and devoit, the singly was received and Dr. Hopkins made a good, practical sermon.

His text was well expounded and was II Corinthians, 4, 6: "For God, Who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

The two leading ideas of this good deliverance were the redemption of mankind through Christ and the efficacy of Christ's supreme work being in His person. The sermon was full of the lucid, strong pictures of thought, for which Dr. Hopkins's preaching is so noted, God's creation of the organized world with its vital sunshine from the void and darkness, was like the work of Christ in the birth of religion in the world for men. The minister gave a sounding blow at the empty efforts of men to solve the divine mysteries of creation, humanity and, heaven. Belief in the personality of Jesus and no reasoning could reach the divine result. God tells that the light of the knowledge of His glory was shined in our hearts in the face of Jesus Christ.

Trinity Was Crowded. Trinity Was Crowded.

Trinity Was Crowded.

A crowded church it was when Dr. Lewis took the pulpit at the 11 o'clock service of Trinity yesterday. The congregation that greeted him was simply immense.

He preached from Luke 14, 16-20, and the subject of his sermon was: "Begging Off from the Great Reception."

At 4 p. m., there was a children's service and preaching by Rev. J. W. Jordan. These services were very interesting and helpful.

The special services continue this week at 4 and 7:45 p. m., and the public are cordially invited to attend. Rev. Mr. Crumley, one of the saintilest and most sensible preachers of Georgia, is assisting the pastor.

Let everybody go to these meetings and help the great work on.

The Central Presbyterian.

The Central Presbyterian. At the Central Presbyterian.

At the Central Presbyterian church yesterday, Rev. Mr. Woodberry, missionary to China, gave a most interesting talk about the Chinese.

He told of the simple customs and faith of the people over there: how they regard the missionaries, and all about the work of planting: the cross in the heathen regions of that dark land of the east. Dr. Hawthorne's Sermon.

Dr. Hawthorne's Sermon.
Dr. Hawthorne, at the First Baptist church yesterday, preached a most powerful sermon on "How the Strong Can Help the Weak."
He enumerated and expatiated fully on the different ways in which it is possible for the strong to help the weak in life and in spiritual work. It was a strong appeal for philanthropy and the finer feelings that, when cultivated, go to make a man.

Brehanged Pulpits. Buchanged Pulpits.

Dr. J. W. Lee and Dr. A. F. Sherrill ex-changed pulpits last evening. Dr. Lee preached an impressive sermon, which was greatly enjoyed by Dr. Sherrill's congrega-tion.

DR. BARRETT ILL .

And There Were No Services at St Luke's Yesterday Morning or Evening.

Dr. R. S. Barrett, rector of St. Luke's, was taken ill yesterday morning, and was not able to deliver a sermon. The rest of the service was given. Dr. Barrett was better last night, but held no services at Convention on May 39th.

The Atlanta branch of the Southern Travelers' Association held a special meeting Saturday night.

The board of directors met in the afternoon and agreed on account of the pending of the decision by the railroad commission on the mileage application that it would be proper to postpone the meeting of the convention until May 30th. After considering the different invitations the meeting unanimously agreed upon Indian Springs as the place. A strong letter was read from Mr. George Collier, manager of the Wigwam, and who, at one time, was one of the most popular commercial men upon the wain, and who, at one time, was one of the most popular commercial men upon the road. Mr. Collier said that if the drum-mers would have a "Drummers' Week" at Indian springs he would not only give them special rates, but the "largest time" they special rates, but the "largest time" they ever had.

The appointment of delegates was postponed until a later date when a mass meeting of the commercial men will be held.

Mr. Phil J. Adami, better known as "Sloppy Weathers," was present. He made one of those strong Southern Travelers' Association talks and prophesied that the coming convention would be the grandest and the most beneficial ever held and urged every member to place his shoulder to the wheel and do his duty. der to the wheel and do his duty Captain H. L. Atwater reported that he had ordered seventy-five delegate badges and three hundred for visitors.

A NEW CHURCH. North Atlanta Wants One and Will' Likely

HIGH-GRADE FURNISHINGS AND HATS.

Get It.

North Atlanta Wants One and Will Likely Get It.

The good people who worship at the Merritts Avenue church want a new house of God in north Atlanta.

And they are working hard to secure it.

There was a large meeting of those interested at the Little Church Around the Corner yesterday afternoon. It was for the purpose of talking over the new church in north Atlanta, and was a most inspiring one. It was attended by some of Atlanta's most solid citizens, both ladies and gentlemen being present. Dr. Hopkins conducted the meeting with his usual grace and clearness, and the result was cheering.

A warm enthusiasm in the movement was developed. Stirring talks were made by Dr. Hopkins, Colonel I. W. Avery, Judge Henry W. Hilliard, General Clement A. Evans, Rev. W. F. Glenn, editor of The Methodist Advocate; Rev. John W. Heldt, the presiding elder, and Mr. Isaac S. Boyd.

The Rev. Dr. Heldt offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously and enthusiastically adopted:

"Resolved, This meeting of the friends of Methodism believes that the time has arrived to take the necessary steps toward building a new, handsome house of worship.

"Resolved, That the following be appointed a committee to secure options on lots of land for the location of the church: I. W. Avery, A. L. Holbrook, Thomas E. Veal, J. F. Walker, Isaac S. Boyd, M. L. Bates, E. H. Frazer."

The music was delightfully rendered by the choir. The meeting was enthusiastic and it starts one of the most important Christian steps in the progress of a growing city, in which all citizens will be interested and by which all will be benefited.

THE CATHOLIC FAIR.

There Are Large Crowds in Attendance and the Fair a Success. The crowds dally and nightly increase at the Catholic fair, now in progress at Centennial hall. A most delightful evening can be spent hall. A most delightful evening can be spent by all who may attend.

Saturday night's attendance was the largest since the fair opened. And why should'nt the fair be a grand success? Everything that is enjoyable and can be considered a pleasure, can be found there. The amusements are varied. The ladies in charge are very careful to see that everyone is treated with the greatest courtesy, and this, of course, helps in making this resort very attractive to all. A more enjoyable evening cannot be found, than at the Catholic fair, in the city.

The fair's proceeds are to be used to liquidate a heavy debt of the SS. Peter and Paul's church. This afternoon there will be a school children's candy stretching. Dancing every night.

THE LAZY MAN ms the Subject of Dr. Talmage's

AT BROOKLYN TABERNACLE YESTERDAY.

His Text Was: "The Slothful Man Boasteth Not That Which He Took in Hunting."

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 24 .- (Special.)-A risitor to the Brooklyn tabernacle this morning would have no difficulty in understandthe secret of the attraction which fills building Sunday after Sunday with of eager listeners. Avoiding abset heological subjects Dr. Talmage hed a sermon on a practical topic giving shrewd common-sense lessons of in-estimable value to his hearers, especially to the young people who were present. His pert was Proverbs 12:27, "The slothful man pasteth not that which he took in hunting."

David and Jeremiah and Ezekiel and Mican and Selomon of the text showed that some time they had been out on a hunting expedition. Spears, lances, swords and nets were employed in this service. A deep pit-fall would be digged. In the center of it there was some raised ground with a pole on which a lamb would be fastened, and the wild beast not seeing the pitfall, but only seeing the lamb would plunge for its prey and dash down, itself captured. Birds were caught in gins or pierced with arrows. The hunters in olden time had two missions, one to clear the land of feroclous beasts and the other to obtain meat for themselves and their ulies. The occupation and habit of hunters are a favorite Bible simile. David said he was hunted by his enemy like a partridge upon the mountain. My text is a hunting

A sportsman arrayed in a garb appro oriate to the wild chase lets slip the bloodirsty hounds from their kennels, and mounting his fleet horse with a halloo and the yell of the greyhound pack, they are off and away, through brake and dell, over marsh and moor, across chasms where a misstep would hurl horse and rider to death, plunging into mire up to the haunches or into swift streams up to the bit, till the game is tracked by dripping foam and blood, and the antiers crack on the rocks, and the hunter has just time to be in at the death. Yet, after all the haste and peril of the chase, my text represents this sportsman as being too indolent to dress the game and prepare it for food. He lets it lie in the dooryard of his home and become a portion for vermin and beaks of prey. Thus by one master-stoke Solomon gives a picture of laziness when he says: "The slothful man ronsteft not that which he took in hunting." The most of hunters have the game they shot or entrapped cooked the same and away, through brake and dell, over man roasteth not that which he took in hunting." The most of hunters have the game they shot or entrapped cooked the same erening or the next day, but not so with this laggard of the text. Too lazy to rip off the hide. Too lazy to kindle the fire, and put the gridiron on the coals.

The first picture I ever bought was an engraving of Thorwalsden's "Autumn." The clusters of grapes are ripe on the vine of the homestead, and the returned hounds, panting from the chase, are lying on the door sill, and the hunter is unshouldering the game, while the housewife is about to take a portion of it and prepare it for the evening meal. Unlike the person of the text, she was enough industrious to roast that which had been taken in hunting. But the world has had many a specimen since Solomon's time of those whose lassitude and improvidence and absurdity were depicted in and see a time when a great opportunity opened but they did not know it. They opened but they did not know it. They were not as wise as George Stephenson, "the father of railways," who, when at sixteen years of age he received an appointment to work at a pumping engine for twelve shillings a week, cried out: "Now I am a made man for life." God gives to meet men at least one god opportunity. I am a made man for life." God gives to most men at least one good opportunity. A great Grecian general was met by a group of beggars, and he said to them: "If you want beasts to plow your land I will lend you some. If you want land I will give you some. If you want seed to sow your land, I will see that you land, I will see that you and, I will see that you get it. But 1 will encourage none in idleness. "So, God gives to most people an opportunity of extrication from depressed circumstances. As if to create in us a hatred for indolence, God has made these arisales which has a hadred loathsome in our eyes, while those which are fleet and active, he has clothed with attractiveness. The tortoise, the sloth, the small, the crocoolie repel us while the deer said the graelle are as a second of the state. are fleet and active, he has clothed with attractiveness. The tortoise, the sloth, the small, the croccoille repel us while the deer and the gazelle are as pleasing as they are fleet, and from the swift wings of innumerable birds God has spared no purple of gold or jet or crimson or snowy whiteness. Beside all this the Bible is constantly assaulting the vice of laziness. Solomon seems to order the idler out of his sight as being beyond all human instruction when he says "Go to the ant, thou sluggard: consider her ways and be wise." And Paul seems to drive him up from his dining table before he gets through with the first course of food with the assertion: "If any will not work, neither shall he eat."

Now, what are the causes of laziness and what are its evil results? I knew a man who was never up to time. It seemed impossible for him to meet an engagement. When he was to be married, he missed the train. His watch seemed to take on the habits of its owner and was always too slow. He had a constitutional lethargy, for which he did not seem responsible. So indolence often arises from the natural temperament. I do not know but that there is a constitutional tendency to this tice in every man. However active you may generally be, have you not on some warm spring day felt a touch of this feeling on you, although you may have shaken it off as you would a reptile? But some are so powerfully tempted to this by their bodily constitution that all the work of hear life has been accomplished with this lethargy hanging on their back or treading on their heels. You sometimes behold it he hidhood. The child moping and lounging their heels. You sometimes behold it he hidhood. The child moping and lounging an their heels. You sometimes behold it he hidhood. The child moping and lounging an their heels. You sometimes behold it he hidhood. The child moping and lounging an their heels. You sometimes he had a newer are at play, or if he join them, he is behind in every race and beaten in every are salitten with this plays. He veget his eaten. It requires as much effort for him to walk as for others to run. Languor him to walk as for others to run. Languor and drowsiness are his natural inheritance. He is built for a slow-sailing vessel, a heavy halk and an insufficient cut water. Place an active man in such a bodily structure and the latter would be shaken to pieces an one day. Every law of physiology demands that he be supine. Such a one is an one day. Every law of physiology demands that he be supine. Such a one is an one day. Every law of physiology demands that he be supine. Such a one is an one day. Every law of physiology demands that he be supine. Such a one is an one day. Every law of physiology demands that he he supine. Such a one is an one day. Every law of this nature. His great duty is resistance. When I see a man fighting an unfortunate temperament, all my sympathies are aroused, and I think of Victor Hugo's account of a scene on a warship, where, in the midst of a storm at sea, a great cannon got loose, and it was crashing this way and that and would have destroyed the ship; and the chief gunner, at the almost certain destruction of his own life, mahed at it with a handspike to thrust between the spokes of the wheel of the rolling cannon, and by a fortunate leverage arcsted the gun till it could be lashed disheartening as that man enters upon who attempts to fight his natural temperament, whether it be too fast or too slow, too marrous or too lymphatic. God help him, for God only can.

Furthermore, indolence is often a result of eavy circumstances. Rough experience order to make a man active and enterprished earlier life seems to be necessary in mr. Mountainers are nearly always swarthy and those who have toiled among mountained and brain. Those who have better the deliverers of nations once had not where to lay their heads. Locusts and wild honey have been the fare of many a John the Baptist, while those who have been fondled of fortune and petted and praised, have often grown up lethargic. They have none of that heroisin which comes from fighting one's own battles. The warm summer sun of prosperity has weakened and relaxed them, Born among the luxuries of lifd, exertion has been unnecessary, and, therefore, they spend their time in taking it easy. They may enter into business, but they are unfitted for its application, for its hardships, for its repulses, and after having lost the most of that which they have invested, go back to thorough inaction. This costly yacht may do well enough on the smooth, glassy bay, but cannot live an hour amid a chopped sea.

Another cause of indolence is severe discouragement. There are those around us who started life with the most sanguine expectations. Their enterprise excited the remark of all compeers. But some sudden and overwhelming misfortune met them, and henceforth they have been inactive. Trouble, instead of making them more determined, has overthrown them. They have lost all selfreliance. They imagine that all men and all occurrences are against them. They hang their heads where once they walked upright. They never look you in the eyes. They become misanthropic and pronounce all men liars and scoundrels. They go melancholic and threadbare to their graves. You cannot rouse them to action by the most glittering offer. In most cases these persons have been honorable and upright all their lives, for rogues never get discouraged, as there is always some other plot they have not sprung. There are but few sadder sights than a man of talent and tact and undoubted capacity giving up life as a failure, like a line of magnificent steamers rotting against wharves from which they ought to have been carrying the exportations of a nation. Every great financial panic produces a large crop of such men. In the great establishments where they were partners in business, they are no a flaton. Every great manical panic produces a large crop of such men. In the great establishments where they were partners in business, they are now weighers or draymen or clerks on small salary.

Reverie is also a cause of indolence. There are multitudes of men who expect to achieve great success in life, who are entirely unwilling to put forth any physical, moral or intellectual effort. They have a great many eloquent theories of life. They are all the while expecting something to turn up. They pass their life in dreaming. They have read in light literature how men suddenly and unexpectedly came to large estates, or found a pot of buried gold at the foot of the rainbow of Good Luck, or had some great offer made them. They have passd their lives in reverie. Notwithstanding he is pinched with poverty, and any other man would be downcast at the forlorn prospect, he is always cheerful and sanguine and jovial, for he does not know but that he may be within a day or two of astounding success. You cannot help be entertained with his cheerfulness of temper. All the world wishes him well, for he never did, anybody any harm. At last he dies in just the same condition in which he lived, soprowful only because he must leave the world just at the time when his long-thought-of plans were about to be successful. Let no young man begin life with reverie. There is nothing accomplished without hard work. Do not in idleness expect something to turn up.

gin life with reverie. There is nothing accomplished without hard work. Do not in idleness expect something to turn up. It will turn down. Indolence and wickedness always make bad luck. These people of reverie are always about to begin. They say: "Wait a little." So with the child who had a cage containing a beautiful canary, and the door of the cage was open and a cat was in the room. "Better shut the door of the cage," said the mother. "Wait a minute," said the boy. While he was waiting the feline creature, with one spring, took the canary. The way that many lose the opportunity of a lifetime is by the same principle. They say: "Wait a minute." My advice is not to wait at all.

Again, bad habits are a fruitful source of indolence. Sinful indulgences shut a man's shop and dull his tools and steal his profits. Dissoluteness is generally the end of industry. There are those who have the rare faculty of devoting occasionally a day or a week to loose indulgences, and, at the expiration of that time, go back with bleared eyes and tremulous hands and bloated cheeks to the faithful and successful performance of their duties. Indeed, their employers and neighbors expect this amusement or occasional season of froile and was sail. Some of the best workmen and most skillful artisans have this mode of conducting themselves, but, as the time rolls on, the season of dissipation becomes more protracted and the season of steadiness and solvier to more inside, until the employers bethe season of dissipation becomes more pro-tracted and the season of steadiness and so-briety more limited, until the employers be-come disgusted and the man is given up to a continual and ruinous idleness. When that point has arrived he rushes to destruc-tion with astonishing velocity. When a man with wrong proclivities of appetite has man with wrong processors appetite has nothing to do, no former self-respect or moral restraint or the beseeching of kindred can save him. The only safety for a man who feels himself under the fascination of any form of temptation is an employment which affords neither recreation nor holiday. Nothing can be more unfortunate for a man of evil inclination than an occupation day. Nothing can be more unfortunate for a man of evil inclination than an occupation which keeps him exceedingly busy during a part of the year and then leaves him for weeks and months entirely unemployed. There are many men who cannot endure protracted leisure. They are like fractious steeds that must constantly be kept to the load, for a week's quiet makes them intractable and uncontrollable. Bad habits produce idleness and idleness produces bad habits. The probability is that you will either bave to give up your loose indulgences or else give up your occupation. Sin will take all enthusiasm out of your work, and make you sick of life's drudgery, and though now had then between your seasons of dissipation, you may rouse up to sudden activity and start again in the chase of some high and noble end, even though you catch the game, you will sink back into siothfulness before you have roasted that which you took in hunting. Bad habits a nuts man for everything but politics.

Now, what are the results of indolence? A marked consequence of this vice is physical disease. The healthiness of the whole natural world depends upon activity. The winds, tossed and driven in endless circuits, scattering the mists from the mountains and seconing out death damps from the winds, tossed and driven in endless circuits, scattering the mists from the mountains and scooping out death damps from the caves and blasting the miasma of swamps and hurling back the fetid atmosphere of great cities, are healthy, just because of their swiftness and uncontrollableness of sweep. But, after a while, the wind falls and the hot sun pours through it, and when the leaves are still and the grain fields bend not once all day long, then pestilence smites its victims and digs trenches for the dead. The fountain, born far up in the wild wood of the mountain, comes down brighter for of the mountain, comes down brighter for every obstacle against which it is riven and singing a new song on every shelf of rock cver which it bounds, till it rolls over the water wheels in the valley, not ashamed to grind corn, and runs through the long grass of the meadow, where the willows reach down to dip their branches and the unyoked oxen come at eventide to cool. Healthy water! Bright water! Happy water! While some stream, too lazy any more to run, gathers itself into a wayside pool, where the swine wallow and filthy insects hop over the surface and reptiles crawl among the ooze, and frogs utter their lideous croak, and by day and night there rises from the foul mire and green scum, fever and plague and death. There is an endless activity under foot and overhead. Not one four-o'clock in the flower bed, not one fly on the window pane, not one squirrel gathering food from the cones of the white pine, not one rabbit feeding on clover tops, not one drop falling in a shower, not one minnow glancing in the sea, not one hawk cawing in the sky, but is busy now and is busy always, fulfilling its mission as certainly as any monarch or earth or any angel in heaven. You hear the shout of the plowboys busy in the field and the rattle of the whiffletrees on the harrow, but you do not know that there is more industry in the earth upturned and in the dumb vegetation under foot than in all that you see. If you put your ear to a lump of riven sod you may hear nothing in the roots and spiculae of grass, but there are at work spades and cleavers and pile drivers and battering rams may hear nothing in the roots and spiculae of grass, but there are at work spades and cleavers and pile drivers and battering rams and internecine wars. I do not wonder that the lively fancy of the ancients saw in the inanimate creation around Floras and Pomonas and Graces and Fauns and Fairies and Satyrs and Nymphs. Everything is busy. Nothing is inanimate, except the man who cannot see the life and hear the music. At the creation the morning stars saug together, but they were only the choir which was to

is manimate, except the man who cannot see the life and hear the music. At the creation the morning stars sang together, but they were only the choir which was to lead all the stars and all the mountains and all the seas in God's worship. All natural objects seem at one and the same time uniting in work and joy and worship. In God's creation there is no pause in either the worship or the work or the joy. Amid all natural objects at one and the same time it is Hallow E'en and Whit Sunday and Ash Wednesday and All Saints' day. All the healthy beauty of that which we see and hear in the natural world is dependent on activity and unrest. Men will be healthy—intellectually, morally and physically—only upon the condition of an active industry. I know men die every day of overwork. They drop down in the coal pits and among the spindles of northern factories and on the cotton plantations of the south. In every city and town and village you find men groaning under burdens, as, in the east, the camels stagger under their loads between Aleppo and Damascus. Life is crushed out every day at counters and work benches and anvils. But there are other multitudes who die from mere inertia. Indulgences every day are contracting diseases beyond the catholicon of allopathy and homeopathy and hydropathy and eclecticism. Rather than work, they rush upon lancets and scalpels. Nature has provided for those who violate her laws by inactivity, what theum for the eyes and what gout for the eyes and what gout for the the spine and what strictures for the chest and what tubercles for the lungs and what rheumatisms for the muscles and what neural-gias for the nerves. Nature in time arraigns every such culprit at her bar, and presents against him an indictment of 100 counts and convicts him on each one of them.

gias for the nerves. Nature in time arraigns every such culprit at her bar, and presents against him an indictment of 100 counts, and convicts him on each one of them. The laws, of nature will not stop their action because men may be ignorant of them. Disease, when it comes to do its work, does not ask whether you understand hygiene, or pathology, or materia medica. If there were not so many lies written on tombstones and in obituaries, you would see what multitudes of the world's inhabitants are slain in their attempts to escape the necessity of toil. Men cross oceans and continents, and climb the Alps, and sit under the sky of Italy or the shadow of Egyptian pyramid, and go down into ancient ruins, and bathe at Baden Baden, and come home with the same shortness of breath and the same poor digestion of breath and the same poor digestion and the same twitching of the nerves, when at home with their own spade they might have dug health out of the ground. or with their own ax hewn health out o might have dug health out of the ground, or with their own ax hewn health out of a log, or with their own scythe garnered health from the grain field. There are many who estimate the respectability of an occupation by the little exertion it demands, and would not have their children enter any employment where their hands may be soiled, forgetting that a laborer's overalls are just as honorable as a priest's robes and an anvil is just as respectable as a pulpit. Health flies from the bed of down and says: "I cannot sleep here;" and from the table spread with ptarmigan and epicurean viands, saying: "I cannot eat here;" and from the vehicle of soft cushions and easy springs, saying: "I cannot ride here;" and from houses luxuriously warmed and upholstered, saying: "I sannot live here;" and some day you meet Health, who declined all these luxuriant places, walking in the plow's furrow or sweltering beside the hissing forge or spinning among the looms or driving a dray or tinning a roof or carring holes of brick mu the ladder of a review holes of brick mu the ladder of a review holes of brick mu the ladder of a review holes of brick mu the ladder of a present the same that he was a principle of the property of the plant of the or driving a dray or tinning a roof or carrying hods of brick up the ladder of a

Furthermore, notice that indolence endangers the soul. Satan makes his chief conquests over men who either have nothing to do, or, if they have, refuse to do it. There is a legend that St. Thomas, years after Christ's resurrection, began again to doubt, and he went to the apostles and told them about his doubts. Each apostle looked at him with surprise and then said he must be excused for he had no time to listen any longer. Then St. Thomas went to the devout women of his time, and expressed his doubts. They said they were sorry but they had no time to listen. Then St. Thomas oncluded that it was because they were so busy that the apostles and the devout wodoubts. They said they were sorry but they had no time to listen. Then St. Thomas concluded that it was because they were so busy that the apostles and the devout women had no doubts. Idleness not only leads a man into associations which harm his morals, but often thrusts upon him the worst kind of skepticism. Loafers are almost always infidels, or fast getting to be. Consummate idlers never read the Bible, and, if they appear in church, can be distinguished in an audience of a thousand by their listlessness, for they are too lazy to hear. It is not so much annong occupied merchants, industrious mechanics and professional men always busy that you hear the religion of Jesus maligned, as in public lounging places, given up to profanity and dissoluteness. They have no sympathy with the book that says: "Let him that stole, steal no more; but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth." I never knew a man given up to thorough idleness that was converted. Simon and Andrew were converted while fishing, and Lydia while selling purple, and the shepherds of Bethlehem watching their flocks heard the voice of angels, and Gideon was threshing on the threshing floor, but no one was ever converted with his hands in his pockets. Let me tell the idler that there is no hope for him either in this world or in the world which is to come. If the Son of God, who owned the whole universe, worked in the carpenter shop of Joseph, surely we, who own so little, yet want so much, ought to be busy. The redeemed in heaven are never idle. What exciting songs they sing! On what messages of love they fly through all the universe, duffilling God's high behests and taking worlds in one circuit, rushing with infinite fierceness against sin and cruelty and oppression, and making the gates of hell to quake at the overthrow of the principalities of darkness, and in the same twinkle of an eye speeding back to their thrones with the news of sinners repentant. ever waving, and the halleluins ever rising, and the harps ever sounding, and the temple always open, and the golden streets always arush with the chariots of salvation, and the last place which you ought ever to want to go to is heaven unless you want to be basy. Alas, my hearers, that in this world there should be so many loungers and so few workers. We go into the vineyard of the church, and we hear the arbor groan under the heft of the vines and the clusters hanging down, large and thick and ripe, cluster against cluster. fairer than the bunches of Eschol and Engedi, and at a touch they will turn into wine more ruddy than that of Libanus and Helbon. But, where are the men to gather the vintage and tread the wine-press? There comes to your ear a sound of a thousand wheat fields ready for the sickle. The grain is ready. It is tall, it is full, it is golden. It waves in the sunlight. It rustles in the wind. It would fill the barns. It would crowd the garners. After awhile it will lodge, or the mildew and the rust will smite it. Oh, where are the reapers to bind the sheaves! The enemies of God are marshalled. You see the glitter of their bucklers. You hear the pawing of their chargers, and all along the line of battle is heard the shout of their great captain, and at the armies of the living God they hurl their defiance. They come, not in numbers like the hosts of Sennacherib, but their multitude is like the leaves of the forest, and the sound of their voices like the thunder of the sea. Mailed in hell's impenetrable armor, they advance with the waving of their banners and the dancing of their plumes. Their ranks are not easily to be broken, for the batteries of the living the line of the sea. Mailed in hell's impenetrable armor, they advance with the waving of their banners and the dancing of their plumes. Their ranks are not easily to be broken, for the batteries with the waving of their banners and the dancing of their plumes. Their ranks are not easily to be broken, for the batteries of hell will open to help them and 10,000 angels of darkness mingle in the fight. Where are the chosen few, who will throw themselves into the jaws of this conflict?

angels of darkness mingle in the fight. Where are the chosen few, who will throw themselves into the jaws of this conflict?

King James gave Sir John Scott, for his courage, a charter of arms with a number of spears for the crest and the motto, "Ready! aye, ready!" and, yet, when God calls us to the work, and the cause demands our espousal and interests dreadful as the judgment and solemn as eternity tremble in the balance, how few of us are willing to trow ourselves into the breach, crying, "Ready! aye, ready!" Oh, I should like to see God arise for the defense of his own cause and the disenthralment of a world in bondage. How the fetters would snap and how the darkness would fly, and how heaven would sing. You have never seen an army like that which God shall gather from the four winds of heaven to fight His battles. They shall cover every hilltop and stretch through every valley, and man the vessels on every sea. There shall neither be uproar, nor wrath, nor smoke, nor bloodshed. Harvests shall come the song of those redeemed. Yet the conquest shall be none the less complete, for, if in that hour when all should be vigilant, the church of God should neglect to seize the prize and the cause should seem to fail, from the graveyards and cemeteries of all Christendom the good and faithful of the past would spring to their feet in time to save the cause, and though the sun might not again stand still robve Gibeon, or the moon in he valley of Ajalon, the day would be long enough to gain a decisive victory for God and the truth.

But my text is descriptive also of those who hunt for opportunities, and, when they get them, do not use them. The rabbit they overcome by an early morning tramp lies for weeks uncooked in the dooryard. The deer that they brought down after long and exhausting pursuit in the Adirondacks, lies on their doorsill undressed, and the savory verison becomes a maledorous careass. They roast not that which they took in hunting. Opportunities laboriously captured, yet useless, and that which came i ng Account of the Origin and ork of the Baptist Convention Which Meets Here Shortly.

MISSON CENTENNIAL.

Dr. McPald Tells the Origin of the Baptist Convention.

TENNIAL OF BAPTIST MISSIONS,

Second Baptist tabernacle was well yesterday at the forenoon service. bright spring-like weather was nsible to a large extent for the great

r. McDonald, the pastor, filled the it, and delivered one of his most powand effective discourses. He was at best, and never did he better hold attention of the large congregation ich attends his church. He spoke from words of Paul, found in the 11th chapr of Acts, and the sermon was missionry in character.

The Southern Baptist convention and ts work in the field of missions was the theme upon which he talked. He gave the origin, history, growth, present condition, and objects of the convention, in the most effective language and the most entertaining manner. He chlated upon the great good that had been accomplished by that organization, and of the potent influence it wielded in the moral world. He said that Atlanta should feel proud of the fact that the convention was to hold one of its annual sessions here, the ession of this year. A splendid galaxy of grand men, of mighty intellects, and strong Christian characters would be here. and they should be treated with the greatest hospitality.

He, in conclusion, urged upon his congregation, their duty to this convention. Every man should exert himself to see that the delegates who would be here in attendance upon the convention were properly entertained.

WILL REBUILD AT ONCE.

Funds Are Being Collected for the Andrew Female College.

Cuthbert, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)—The people have gone to work in earnest to rebuild at once the Andrew Female college which was destroyed by fire last Friday. Much finer and handsomer buildings will take the place of the old. Architect Parkins has already been before the trustees and will submit plans and specifications next week. Everybody has taken hold of the work in behalf of this noble institution. Over two thousand dollars were raised at a citizens' meeting called by Mayor Moye last Saturday. This has been increased to over three thousand since. This gives over eleven thousand in hand, but it will not meet the demands or cover the loss. In view of this it has been decided to call upon the friends of the college and education for voluntary donations. It is one of the oldest and best-known female colleges in Georgia, and it is expected that a large number of its friends will come to its assistance. Contributions sent to Mayor R. L. Moye, chairman of the citizens' committee, or Rev. P. S. Twitty, president, will be duly receipted for and highly appreciated.

A FAMOUS WILL CASE

To Bs Tried at a Called Term of Carroll Superior Court.

Carrollton, Ga., April 24.—(Special.)— Judge Harris has passed an order for a called or adjourned term of Carroll superior court to be held the second Wednesday in July, to try the celebrated Bonner will case. Judge Harris is disqualified in the case, but Judge Boynton, of Griffin, will preside. The Bonner will case includes the celebrated Bonner gold mines located eight miles southwest of Carrollton, and said to be worth over a hundred thousand dollars. The mines belonged to Hon. Zaddock Bonner and he willed the same to his youngest son, Mr. G. A. Bonner. Some of the heirs are residents of Atlanta. It is thought that the case will occupy a week ight that the case will occupy or more. A fine array of lawyers have been engaged on both sides.

One of the Richest Mines One of the Richest Mines Ever discovered is the mine of health that is found in a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Its "output" is unprecedented. Richly does it "pan out" in the paying ores of vitaility and regularity of organic action. The debilitated should work this mine for "all it is worth." So also should the constipated, the billous, the dysepptic, the rheumatic, and persons troubled with inactivity of the kidneys or bladder and la grippe. MUCH LIKE DAKOTA.

Rome, Ga., March 26, 1892.—I have read with delight "The Farm and Fireside," the late volume of sketches by Bill Arp, descriptive of southern domestic life. It contains the best specimens of the genial wit and philosophy of this most admirable of American humorists. The reader becomes absorbed at the beginning and is unwilling to lay the book down until the last one of the short, delightful sketches has been perused, and he feels more than repaid for the time and price expended. A copy of this beautiful and charming volume should be in every southern household.

We receive it often and as soon as it is received it is put up in one-pound cakes, wrapped in linen paper and put in our refrigerator, and is delivered to your house clean and firm. Now, is it not a treat to have no more poor butter, no more stale butter, but instead always the same high grade Jersey? We are furnishing that high quality of butter every day and can supply you. Ask any of our many pleased customers about our butter and then take their advice and come and do likewise, and the butter problem will trouble you no longer.
